KILLED RULER IN MARCH

Had Shadowed Him and Rushed From Doorway as Unguarded Monarch Tried to Pass.

By Associated Press.
ATHENS, May 6.—Aleko Schinas, who assassinated King George of Greece on March 18 at Saloniki, killed himself this morning by flinging himself out of a window of the police station in that city.

A few days ago the doctors examined Schinas and announced that he was dying of tuberculosis.

Schinas killed the King of Greece on March 18 in the main street of Saloniki, which the Greeks had captured but a short time previously.

The assassin was a Greek anarchist who had followed the victorious army northward.

Schinas said that in 1911 he had applied for assistance at the King's Palace and had been driven away.

The King was walking with his equestrian guard except for two soldiers who were half a square in the rear.

As the King passed a doorway in which Schinas was hidden he stepped out and fired a revolver. The bullets caused death within a few moments.

The King's equestrian guard captured the assassin and he was taken to prison.

There he said that, knowing he must die some time, he chose to die as a regicide and thus to "redeem" his own life.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The smart set, which has survived Mrs. Alice Longworth's glass heels, the Hope diamond and Count von Bernstorff's red silk shirt, succumbed today when Mrs. Preston Gibson and her cubist gown burst upon the Horse Show crowd.

The foundation of the gown was black and white scrolly silk, trimmed with checkerboard bands of red and black. This was made close draped around the ankles and rose with cubist puffs all the way up to the waist.

The hat was of black and white scrolly straw in the same fussy-wussy design as the gown. One red feather was deliberately broken in the middle and bent crazily off to the side to complete the picture.

Paul R. Bowen's Unusual Actions Cause Woman to Inform the Police.

HOUSTON, Tex., May 6.—A man who gave his name as Paul R. Bowen was arrested here today "on suspicion," the charge being based on a telegram from the Atlanta police saying Bowen was wanted in connection with the finding of the body of Mary Phagan in an Atlanta factory a week ago.

Bowen was arrested after a woman, whose room adjoined his in a hotel, informed the police of the young man's unusual actions.

From Bowen's trunk, over which the woman said she saw him sobbing, the police said they took a girl's wrist and a photograph identified as that of Mary Phagan.

Mrs. Anna M. Basile Says He Deserted Her on Their Honeymoon, and That She Vowed to Hunt Him Down.

Mrs. Anna Mueller Basile, 20-year-old bride of five months, betrayed her husband, Philip Basile, to detectives at Union Station, Tuesday, after inducing him to come from Springfield, Ill., to St. Louis and step into the trap which she had laid for him.

Basile was wanted by the police on a warrant charging him with embezzling $500 worth of jewelry from Henry J. Kirchoff, a jeweler, at 1923 North Grand avenue.

In turning her husband over to the detective the young bride fulfilled a vow which she says she made when he deserted her in New Orleans less than a month after their marriage.

From New Orleans she traced Basile to Memphis, and there tried to trap him, but failed. Then she came to St. Louis and went to live at her mother's home, 2943 Gano avenue.

While pretending to seek a reconciliation she used the mails and the telephone to trace him to Belmont, Wis., and later to Springfield, Ill.

Called by Long-Distance.

Tuesday morning she talked with him over the long-distance telephone and induced him to promise that he would at once return to St. Louis. She promised she would be forgiven.

In order to be sure that her trap would not fail, she asked him to tell her just when he would arrive.

"I'll be there at 11:30 this afternoon on the C. & A.," said the trusting husband.

SEATS FOR ALL ON CHICAGO ELEVATED VOTED BY COUNCIL

New Ordinance Is Drastic and Is Expected to End Strap-Hanging.

MAYOR WILL SIGN BILL

Assemblymen Adopt New Measure, Providing Relief for Public, by Acclamation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, May 6.—Chicago today introduced a new era in its checkered traction career when the ordinance compelling the elevated lines to limit their carrying capacity to the number of seats in the cars was adopted last night by the City Council. The ordinance is one of the most drastic ever passed, and with the signature of Mayor Harrison, which was said to have been assured, will become effective immediately.

Although it includes steam cars, the ordinance was aimed directly at the elevated roads, which for several years have been carrying almost as many strap-hangers per car as seated passengers.

It was passed unanimously and by acclamation.

Companies Explain Position.

In a statement forwarded to Alderman Block, chairman of the Transportation Committee of the Council, Henry A. Blair, Ira M. Cobe and Samuel L. Sullivan, heads of the elevated companies, say:

"The companies are as keenly alive as yourself to the necessity of giving their patrons the best service possible. They know that the commercial success of a transportation agency is more dependent upon this factor than upon any other."

"It is to be regretted that inquiry was not made by your committee concerning the intentions of the companies as regards through routing, for the bare asking of the question would have disclosed the fact that the companies are not only willing to afford this relief, but had been engaged in the necessary work for some months."

The passage of the ordinance marks the beginning of the end of a fight between the newspapers and the public on one side and the traction men on the other against the traffic snarl in Chicago.

The ordinance reads:

"For the purpose of providing comfortable transportation of passengers without crowding the number of passengers to be carried in any street railway, elevated, railway or steam railroad car, shall not exceed the seating capacity of such street railway, elevated, railroad or steam railroad."

Preparations for putting the ordinance into effect in 10 days, the time required by law for publication, were made today and a committee headed by Alderman Block was formed. This committee will have full charge of the work of compelling the elevated lines to carry only as many passengers as they can seat.

150 BELL TELEPHONE EMPLOYEES ON STRIKE

Maintenance Department Men Say Two Were Fired for Joining Electrical Union.

One hundred and fifty employees of the Bell Telephone Co. went on a strike at 11 o'clock Tuesday, after their demands that two employees be reinstated had been refused. The strike will not interfere with telephone service, officials say, but will delay the installation of new telephones.

The walkout follows the discharge of two men Monday in the maintenance department who recently had joined the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. Members of the union declared the men were dismissed because they had joined the union.

A meeting of the union Monday night an ultimatum was prepared stating that unless the men were reinstated by 11 o'clock Tuesday a strike of the union would result. A committee presented the demands this morning, but no agreement was reached.

Officials of the company said Tuesday that the men were discharged because the work slackened after May 1 in the installation of telephones, and fewer workmen are needed.

JOB AT $75 A MONTH

Former Speaker John H. Sommerich of the House of Representatives just can't keep from working. He has accepted a position which enabled him to retire from active business several years ago, but he can't keep still.

He was appointed Monday as an inspector in the Street Department at a salary of $75 a month. He has devoted a part of his time to keeping check on the contractors in charge of the street sprinkling. Earlier in the day he filed a suit contesting the seat of Thomas M. Byrne, who defeated him at the municipal election for the House of Representatives from the Eighteenth Ward.

In addition to his other activities he is vice-president of the Protzman Realty and Investment Co. While he was Speaker of the House, he officiated as Mayor several times during the absence of Mayor Kringsman and received $15 a day for occupying the executive chair and receiving the congratulations of his friends.

Former Gertrude Seago Finds "Personal Ad" Saying Estate Has Been Left to Her.

Mrs. Gertrude Seago Springfield of 3336 Olive street was in a quandary Tuesday as to what to do with $25,000 that she feels sure she is going to get.

She would like to buy an automobile, but is uncertain whether to purchase it out of the principal or wait until the interest has accrued. On the other hand she thinks it might be better not to buy the automobile at all, but to invest the $25,000 in real estate—maybe a chicken farm.

And these are not all of Mrs. Springfield's troubles with her $25,000. Perhaps her greatest trouble is that she has not got the $25,000 yet, doesn't know when she is going to get it, or who is going to give it to her. All the certain information she has on the subject was contained in this "Personal" which appeared in the want ad columns of the Post-Dispatch Sunday:

PERSONAL—Anyone knowing the whereabouts of Gertrude Seago, formerly of Jerseyville, Ill., please write, as there is $25,000 left her by her late husband, Box A-110, P. O. 2.

Mrs. Springfield formerly was Miss Gertrude Seago of Jerseyville. She says there can be no doubt she is the person mentioned in the advertisement, as she is the only Gertrude Seago that has resided in Jerseyville in recent years. She was divorced from A. B. Springfield within the last year in Illinois. Two months ago her parents, brothers and sisters moved to St. Louis from Jerseyville and all are now living in the rooming house conducted by Mrs. Springfield at 3336 Olive street.

Mrs. Springfield answered the "ad." and Tuesday, while awaiting results, she was busy discussing the $25,000 with her father, George Seago, and her sister, Mildred, 34 years old. Seago advocated real estate or a chicken farm, but Mildred favored an automobile.

"I think I'll get the money all right," Mrs. Springfield told a reporter. "I have a number of persons in mind who might have left me such an amount."

JOY RIDING IN CITY AUTOS PUNISHABLE, IN PLAYER'S BILL

Joy riding in city-owned automobiles will be a misdemeanor if the Municipal Assembly passes a bill which Compulsory Player and Street Commissioner Talbot will submit, providing for the control of the municipal garage and the machines contained in it.

The discovery that some machines have been used 15 and 17 hours at a time have caused the officials to wonder whether the city's employees were so zealous in their work as such long use of the motors would indicate.

The garage is at Forest Park boulevard and Vandeventer avenue. It contains 30 automobiles belonging to the city and it is a pending appropriation bill passes the number will be increased to 40.

Player proposes to create the office of superintendent, to be filled by a man experienced in the automobile business. He will be required to keep a strict account of the time of every machine and of the use of every gallon of gasoline.

Two of the items which have made Player suspicious are the use of one of the Street Department machines, on a certain day, from 8:30 a. m. to 11:50 p. m. A machine attached to the office of the Board of Public Improvement, it appeared, was used from 7:10 a. m. to 12:45 a. m., 17 hours.

It is proposed to appropriate $24,000 for 20 new machines, and Player says he believes these cars to be needed. Some old cars would be turned in, in addition to the cash price of the new ones. The City Forester and the Superintendent of the Industrial School, who now use horses and buggies, would have $1000 runabouts; the Building Commissioner a $2000 touring car, and the Superintendent of Police and Fire Alarm Telegraph, four runabouts for himself and deputies, replacing horses and buggies.

25 HURT IN STRIKE
RIOTS IN SYRACUSE
BUSINESS CENTER

Eight Policemen Injured in Pitched Battle With Hundreds of Italian Laborers.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 6.—Twenty-five men, policemen and Italian strikers, were hurt in a pitched battle here today and the Mayor and Sheriff have decided on military rule. The revolution of the police were matched against guns, stones and clubs of the strikers. Two of the strikers were mortally wounded. Eight policemen were hurt, four of whom are in the hospital suffering from wounds inflicted by bricks and stones.

The riots, which were the outcome of a laborers' and hoodlums' strike, were fiercest in front of the Catholic Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, two blocks from the heart of the business section. There were riots in several other parts of the city.

All ambulances in the city rushed the wounded to the hospitals. Firemen speeded to the scene and poured powerful streams upon the strikers, driving them back.

A call for the State militia was sent out at 11 o'clock. A crowd of about 200 Italians interfered with the work of construction at the First Baptist Church and 60 policemen were sent to the scene. They fired over the heads of the mob. This was the beginning of the trouble.

Fire Company No. 1 immediately was called and turned on the hose, drenching the mob. Sheriff Matthews and Chief of Police Cadin rushed to the scene when the news was brought to their offices.

Rioting was renewed shortly after noon and the Chief of Police sent all of his men out with instructions that if they had to shoot they should shoot to kill.

Major J. B. Tuck announced after a conference with Chief Cadin that Company C of the militia would be called out.

The strike started a week ago. The men demand an increase of wages, but the contractors rejected the demand. The laborers, about 5000 in number, and nearly all Italians, have tried to parade the streets daily and have tried to induce other laborers to stop work.

Prosecuting Attorney Lashly Orders Her Taken in Custody When She Appears at Clayton to Ask That Old Bond Not Be Forfeited.

FATHER SIGNS NEW SURETY FOR HER

Father and Husband Decline to Discuss Case of Woman Who Is Under Charges of Bigamous Wedding to William J. Erder.

Mrs. Dora Doxey-Whitney, lying in an ambulance in the rear of a Clayton hotel, was rearrested Tuesday afternoon for bigamously marrying the late William J. Erder. While prostrate on her back, she signed the name, "Dora Whitney," to the new $1500 bond which her father, Jefferson Fuller, and two of her lawyers, Charles P. Johnson and C. Orrick Bishop, signed for her.

The woman, whose former bond was forfeited when she failed to appear for trial April 7, was spirited into St. Louis April 26 by her husband, Fred Whitney of Orofino, Idaho. Her presence at the Merchants' Hotel, Twelfth and Olive streets, was kept a secret, and Judge Wurdeman had no idea, when he listened Monday to the arguments of her bondsmen against the forfeiture, that she was within a few miles of the courtroom.

Head Hearing Saturday.

Judge Wurdeman set next Saturday as the time for finally deciding on the bond forfeiture. If he had upheld the technical plea on which the bondsmen sought to escape the forfeiture, Mrs. Whitney could have taken her chance at escaping from St. Louis without being rearrested. But Tuesday it became known, through guests at the hotel, that the former Mrs. Doxey was decided there, and the bondsmen then decided to take her to Clayton at once.

Dr. Waldo Briggs, Attorney Johnson and Mrs. Johnson accompanied the woman and her husband to Clayton. Attorney Johnson and Senator Gardner went into court to discuss the question of a new bond, and Dr. Briggs told Prosecuting Attorney Lashly that the woman could not be moved, as her pulse and temperature were abnormal.

Denies She Is Ill.

Lashly and Julius R. Nolte, special prosecutor on behalf of Erder's relatives, said they wished to see for themselves, and visited her in the ambulance. In the courtroom, a few minutes later, Senator Gardner told the Judge that Mrs. Whitney could not appear in court at any nearby time without endangering her life.

"We've been hearing that for three years," said Nolte to the Judge, who has lately commented from the bench on the strange phases of Mrs. Doxey-Whitney's illness.

Gardner retorted that the prosecutors would at least admit, after having seen the woman, that she was ill at present. "I should say not," replied Nolte. A personal tilt between the lawyers followed, which the Judge checked.

Case Set for June 9.

Several dates in May, and June 2 were suggested for the trial, and Gardner said he had a case in court on each of those dates. Judge Wurdeman set June 9, and when Gardner said he had a case then, the Court said the Doxey case would have to take precedence to it.

Then the Judge went out to the ambulance and saw the woman sign the bond, which was rested on a soap box held by Mrs. Johnson as she wrote. The sum of the bond and its signers at the same time before. Just in time to do his part on the bond.

Then Sheriff Bode removed his deputy who had been guarding the ambulance, and Mrs. Doxey-Whitney was driven back to the city in the ambulance. Attorney Johnson said she would be taken to a hospital at once for an operation. He spoke of her illness as cancer, but Dr. Briggs said it was a tumor.

Lashly and Nolte said the State would have its own physician ready to make an examination of the woman, if she seeks a continuance June 9 on the ground of her physical condition.

The woman's success in creating a belief in her illness when she was in Tennessee more than a year ago, and was supposed to be too sick to go to Clayton, was fresh in the memory of the prosecuting officials. She got repeated continuances on this ground, but was able, as is proved, to go to Idaho and marry Whitney.

At the same time, some of those who have seen her at the Merchants' Hotel believe that Mrs. Doxey-Whitney is now really sick.

When the former Mrs. Doxey was carried out of the hotel, her face was partially covered by a black veil, but Post-Dispatch reporters who attended her trial in St. Louis in 1910 recognized her features.

Acquitted of Murder.

She was tried then on a charge of murdering William J. Erder, to whom she was married in Clayton April 24, 1909. She was acquitted, but was indicted at Clayton for bigamy on the ground that she was the legal wife of Dr. Loren B. Dosey at the time of her marriage to Erdor. It is upon this indictment that the bond forfeiture proceedings were instituted.

While Post-Dispatch reporters were waiting at the Merchants Hotel Tuesday for an opportunity to see the former Mrs. Dosey, an ambulance from the Kron Livery Co. stopped at the Twelfth street entrance. Two liveried attendants came in and said that they had orders to take Mrs. Whitney to Clayton.

"I think you have made a mistake," the clerk said. "You had better go to the hospital."

The clerk called one of the attendants to one side, and held a whispered conversation with him. The two men returned to the ambulance, drove around the block and stopped at the Olive street entrance.

Carried on Stretcher. A few minutes later two men carried the former Mrs. Dosey out of the hotel on a stretcher and placed her in the ambulance. Whitney, a small man, about 35 years old, and her father, tried to shield her from the eyes of the crowd that had gathered on the street. They were only partially successful.

"You will have to excuse me from saying anything about this matter," Whitney said to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

Fuller also maintained absolute silence, refusing even to admit his identity.

The hotel clerk said that Mrs. Whitney was brought to the hotel April 28 by two men. She was sick then, he said, and had to be carried to her room on a stretcher.

"One of the men registered as T. R. Whitney and wife of Greer, Idaho," the clerk said. "He told me that he would stay at the hotel only on the condition that nobody, without his consent, be permitted to see him or the woman."

He said he expected newspaper reporters to deputy sheriffs would be around, but gave strict orders against permitting any of them to see him or the woman.

"The woman has remained in the room continuously, and the man has been with her most of the time."

AMERICAN FLAG NAILED ABOVE SOCIALIST BANNER

Thousands in Ohio Town Cheer Two Men Who Are Trapped on Roof After Exploit.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., May 6.—Cheered by thousands in the street below, two men placed the American flag above the red flag of Socialism on a building in which the Socialists have headquarters. Several days ago the Socialists flung their flag to the breeze, and city authorities found there was no law to take it down. Protests from the G. A. R. and Sons of Veterans caused a lively controversy.

Two men, one a law student and the other the owner of the building, ascended to the roof of the structure through a trap door, passing the headquarters of the Socialists. The American flag was nailed just above the red banner. When the men attempted to leave the roof they found the trap door locked. From the edge of the building's roof they notified the crowd below of their predicament. An alarm of fire was sounded and the ladders of the department were used in aiding them to descend.

PAPER SAYS SUFFRAGETTE POISONED CHAMPION DOG

"Choo-Tai," Pride of Miss Ashton-Cross, Died Soon After Winning Championship.

LONDON, May 6.—The Standard asserts that the poisoning of the Pekinese champion, Choo-Tai, the property of Miss Violet Ashton-Cross, last week was the work of militant suffragettes. The dog died soon after winning the championship at the Southampton show.

A militant suffragette caught early this morning by the police in the act of placing a bomb at the entrance to the Grand Hotel on Trafalgar Square, which is crowded with American tourists, was brought up at Bow Street Police Court later in the day and remanded by the Magistrate for further inquiries. She gave the name of Ada Ward.

The bomb was in the form of a tin canister, to which was attached a lighted fuse. A placard bearing the words, "Votes for Women," was wrapped around it.

St. Catherine's, the parish church of Hatcham, in the southeast of London, was gutted by fire this morning, and the outrage is placed by the police to the account of the militant suffragettes.

WIFE TICKLES HER WAY INTO DIVORCE COURT

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 6.—Mrs. Mary Hagenough, through her fondness for seeing her husband, John J. Hagenough, laugh, tickled her way into divorce court. She says she never gave him cause to be dissatisfied with her, and the only times she would have trouble with him was when she would tickle him, to see him laugh.

At first, she declared, he seemed to enjoy her tickling, but finally he lost patience and berated her. One day she tickled him a bit harder than usual and he knocked her down, she asserts.

He then told her that he "had enough" and was "going for all time." She says she hasn't seen him since.

SEES CAR CUT FOOT OFF

HARRY Holt was walking along the Suburban Railroad tracks near his home on the Rock road when the heel of his shoe caught between a rail and a board of a crossing as he stepped from the track to get out of the way of a car. Unable to get his foot out, he leaped away from the track and watched the car cut off his foot near the axle. Then he fainted.

When taken to St. Vincent's Hospital surgeons found it necessary to amputate the leg near the knee.

YELLOW BULLDOG IS SWITCHMEN'S MASCOT

'JIM' IS A COMMON CUR, BUT TRAINMEN ARE PROUD OF HIM

He's a Yellow Mongrel Bulldog and Is Said to Be About 17 Years Old.

"Jim" is almost old enough to vote, but he is not old enough yet always to distinguish between a dog-catcher and a railroad switchman. This shortcoming on the part of "Jim" landed him in the dog pound again last Saturday. But he was rescued Monday and is now sporting a little tin tag—the only touchstone effective against the man with the wire nose.

"Jim" is just a common yellow bulldog, but he is a fast friend of more than 150 switchmen who work in the Terminal Railroad yards on Bremen avenue. He has been their intimate associate for years, and several times they have recovered him from the city impounder.

Every year the switchmen buy a license for "Jim." This year they were a little slow and "Jim" was gathered in by the dog-catchers last Saturday. When he was missed D. C. Welch, one of the switchmen, went to the pound with the proper credentials and got the dog. Jim was taken back to the yards in a street car. Last year when he met a similar fate he was taken home in an automobile. His license number is 16,685.

"Jim" has had a run of particularly bad luck lately, anyway. He got crippled in one hind foot last winter, and not very many weeks ago a freight car ran over his tail and cut it off.

Guards Their Shanties. The dog spends practically all of his time in the railroad yards. The switchmen feed him scraps from their lunches, and for these favors Jim watches their shanties and personal property.

He is known to every child in the neighborhood of the Terminal yards. When the dog-catchers got him Saturday a number of switchmen's wives made an organized effort to take him away from the impounder, but they were unsuccessful. As near as any of the switchmen can estimate, Jim is about 17 years old.

ENGAGED COUPLE DROWNED IN LAKE

Boat Capsizes, Girl Grasps Man Around Neck, and Two Sink Together.

CUMBERLAND, Wis., May 6.—John Lair, 22 years old, and Miss Kate Penhew, 20 years old, were drowned in Lake Montgomery today by the capsizing of a boat in which they were riding.

Lair and Miss Penhew had been engaged for a week. The couple were near the middle of the lake when the boat suddenly tipped over. Scores of persons witnessed the accident, but were unable to effect a rescue.

Lair reached the overturned boat in safety and was seen to swim to the help of the girl. She grasped him about the neck, and both sank. The bodies have not been recovered.

FREE CLINIC FOR POOR

Holy Communion Church to Establish Charity.

A free clinic for children of the poor and those who cannot pay for medical attention will be established in the parish house of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Communion, Leffingwell and Washington avenues.

The church will furnish medicines and equipment from a fund contributed by the congregation. Physicians who are members of the church have volunteered their services for the clinic and will visit the homes of the patients.

PAROLED MAN SENTENCED

SEATTLE, Wash., May 6.—George Edward Adams, the paroled thief, who was convicted recently of conspiracy to counterfeit United States money, has been sentenced to serve 30 months imprisonment.

The sentence is to run concurrently with the unserved portion of the 18-month sentence imposed when Adams was convicted in 1907 of the theft of gold of an estimated value of $30,000 in the United States essay office here. Five years of the previous sentence remain to be served.

WOMAN DIVORCES MAN WHO CURSED AT THE CHICKENS

George Thieme Also Alleged to Have Refused to Ride in Auto Father-in-Law Got Him.

When Mrs. Elizabeth Thieme bought chickens for her husband, George E. Thieme, he cursed them and threw rocks at them, and when his father-in-law gave him an automobile he refused to ride in it, according to testimony on which Judge Rausser granted a divorce to Mrs. Thieme Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Thieme also testified that Thieme nagged at her, failed to support her and compelled her to earn her living by painting china. She alleged also that he refused to sit at the same table with her friends when they visited her.

Mrs. Thieme lived at the home of Mrs. Thieme's father, Joseph F. Schenk, 3800 Arkansas avenue, a wall paper dealer. Schenk testified that he required his son-in-law to pay only $8 a week board for himself and wife and they had the best room in the house. Schenk declared he did everything he could to make Thieme's stay pleasant.

"He wanted to keep chickens," said the witness, "and we got a pen of chickens for him. Then, when he lost his temper, as was often the case, he would go out in the yard and swear at the chickens and if he could not make them do as he wanted he would throw bricks and other articles at them. He crippled several so badly we had to kill them to put them out of misery."

Schenk said he also bought an automobile to please his son-in-law, but the latter did not appreciate it, refusing to join the family on rides. Thieme, who was in court asking for divorce and custody of a child, Ruth, on cross-examination, Judge Rausser testified that the reason he refused to go riding in the Schenk machine was because Mrs. Thieme called him such names as "top," "ape" and "a bound," and would "in decision of his attire, to 'take the tramp into the machine and give him a ride.'"

Thieme denied that he was quarrelsome or that he had mistreated his wife except on one occasion. This, he said, was when he slapped her on her knee because she deceived him as to what she was going to do, telling him, he said, that she was going walking, but instead went to a picture show. He said that their trouble started after the birth of their child. Since that time, he said, Thieme would tell him to break his clothes and get out, as she would not permit him to be happy as long as he remained with her. He denied that he did not properly support her.

They were married April 15, 1906, and separated July 8 last. He is foreman of a department in a wholesale dry goods house and lives at Ferguson, Mo.

JACK JOHNSON DEFENSE EXAMINES VENIREMEN

Twelve Men Chosen by Government in Trial Asked About Their Prejudices.

CHICAGO, May 6.—The process for getting a jury to try Jack Johnson, the negro prizefighter, on a charge of violating the Mann act, continued in Federal Judge Carpenter's court here today.

The 12 veniremen chosen by the government yesterday were tendered to the defense for examination. The line of questioning was designed to disclose whether the veniremen entertained prejudices against miscegenation, pugilism or the negro race.

C. A. Gifford of Elgin, Ill., admitted that he was prejudiced against the defendant because of the suicide of Etta Duryea Johnson, the fighter's former wife.

BURGLAR CAUGHT IN ACT

Leaves Collection of Silver and Jewelry When Owners Return.

J. M. Flanagan and his wife returned to their apartment at 4905 Forest Park boulevard, at 10:45 p. m. Monday night, just in time to frighten away a burglar who had made a collection of jewelry and silverware in the apartment. The valuables were dropped as the burglar fled, and the Flanagan's do not believe they lost anything.

The bureau drawers and even the bedclothes had been ransacked in search of the articles. The kitchen window stood open.

She Darkened Her Gray Hair

A Kansas City Lady Darkened Her Gray Hair and Stimulated Its Growth by a Simple Home Process.

She Tells How She Did It.

Mrs. A. Biggam, a well-known resident of Kansas City, Mo., who darkened her gray hair by a simple home process, made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can make their gray or faded hair stimulate its growth and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe, which they can mix at home. To half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, 1 small box of Barbo Compound and 1/4 oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently, then every two weeks. This mixture relieves any scalp troubles and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair. It does not stain the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray haired person look 10 to 20 years younger."—ADV.

MRS. WILSON TO MEET WITH NEEDLEWORK GUILD

Flood Relief, in Which 600,000 Garments Were Distributed, to Be the Topic.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Mrs. Wilson, wife of the President; Mrs. Oscar Underwood, wife of the majority leader of the House, and a number of other women prominent in the congressional and diplomatic circles had announced their intention to be present today at the meeting of the local section of the Needlework Guild. The work done by the guild in furnishing clothing for the sufferers from the recent floods in the Middle West was the topic for discussion.

Mrs. George Goodhue, president of the Dayton (O.) section of the organization, was present to tell of her personal experiences in the flooded district. Mrs. Wilson is honorary president of the national organization, which it is announced, distributed 600,000 articles of clothing among the poor last year.

Riot at Socialist Meeting. HUNTINGTON, W. Va., May 6.—One man was shot in the head and several others were injured in a riot here last night, when an alleged attempt was made to break up a mass meeting of Socialists which had been called to protest against martial law in the coal-strike district of Kanawha County.

MOVES TO FORFEIT MERCHANTS BRIDGE TO UNITED STATES

Senator Reed Introduces Resolution to Take Immediate Legal Proceedings.

BASED ON ITS CHARTER

Alleges Act Creating Independent Span Has Been Flagrantly Violated Many Years.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, May 6.—A resolution to forfeit the Merchants' Bridge at St. Louis to the United States, on the ground that the provision of its charter prohibits its consolidation with any other bridge, was introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator Reed. The resolution directs the Attorney-General of the United States immediately to institute legal proceedings to obtain possession of the bridge for the Government.

The resolution, which was referred to the Judiciary Committee of the Senate for consideration and report, asserts that the Merchants' Bridge, the Eads Bridge, its principal competitor, and the Wiggins Ferry Co., have all passed into the hands of the same corporation, in contravention of the provisions of the bridge charter.

Senator Reed relies upon a section of the bridge charter, granted by act of Congress of Feb. 8, 1887, to bring about the forfeiture of the bridge, which is now owned, controlled and operated by the Terminal Railroad Association, together with the Eads Bridge and the Wiggins Ferry Co.

This section reads: "That whereas a principal reason for giving authority to build the bridge herein contemplated is to secure reasonable rates and tolls for corporations and individuals for passing over the same, the St. Louis Merchants' Bridge Co. or its successors or assigns, shall not agree or consent to the consolidation of this bridge with any other bridge across the Mississippi River, or to the pooling of the earnings of this bridge company with the earnings of any other bridge company on said river, nor shall any person who is or may be a stockholder or director or manager of any other bridge over said river be a stockholder or director or manager of the bridge herein provided for." Further, that if this provision of this act shall at any time be violated in any of these particulars such violation shall, without legal proceeding, at once forfeit the privilege hereby granted and the said bridge shall become the property of the United States, and the Secretary of War shall take possession of the same in the name and for the use of the United States.

This provision, the resolution states, was amended Sept. 20, 1888, by striking out the word "stockholder" wherever it appeared in the original act. It is alleged in the resolution that the latter and the spirit of the act of Congress authorizing the erection of the bridge have been continuously and flagrantly violated for many years, to the great injury and detriment of the commerce of the United States and the people.

Declares Immediate Forfeiture.

The concluding paragraph of the resolution urges "that the said bridge at St. Louis, Mo., erected over the Mississippi River by the St. Louis Merchants' Bridge Co., under the acts of Congress above mentioned, be, and the same is, hereby declared forfeited to the Government of the United States of America by reason of the violation of the acts of Congress heretofore referred to of Feb. 8, 1887, and Sept. 20, 1888, and that under the terms of and in accordance with the specific provision of said acts of Congress, the Attorney-General is hereby directed to at once institute legal proceedings to enforce the forfeiture and to secure possession of said St. Louis Merchants' Bridge for the Government."

Sworn to End Arbitrary.

The Merchants' Bridge was promoted in 1887 by the members of the Merchants' Exchange, who were the principal subscribers to its stock and purchasers of its bonds. The exchange had been engaged in a long and unsuccessful fight against the bridge authority, and decided that the best way to get results was to build an independent bridge and invite the railroads to use it. The bridge was completed in 1892, but before it had been opened long its stock was sold to the Terminal Railroad Association, which also guaranteed the principal and interest on its bonds. The road has been owned, controlled and operated by the Terminal ever since. Several unsuccessful efforts have been made to induce the Secretary of War to exercise his authority, under the act of Congress, to seize the bridge in the name of the Government.

MAN FORGOT HERO ACT

Medal for Brave Deed in 1912
Recalls It to Fireman.
CHICAGO, May 6.—"I had forgotten all about it. I did not amount to anything," said Fireman E. E. Reimer, a fireman, when he was informed yesterday that the Tree medal for the bravest act performed by a Chicago fire fighter in 1912 had been awarded to him. The deed was the stopping of a team pulling an engine, which ran away when the driver was hurled to the pavement. Reimer climbed over the swinging engine to the driver's seat, let himself down between the plunging horses and checked them as they had all but reached a crowd of people.

Banker Regains Prison Term.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., May 6.—Isaac B. Walker, a banker of Dallas, Tex., was received at the Federal penitentiary to serve a year and a day for violation of the national banking laws. After his sentence of five years, Walker appealed to President Wilson, who recently commuted his sentence.

MONTENEGRO KING REPORTED LIKELY TO QUIT THRONE

Early Abdication Expected to Follow Withdrawal of Troops From Scutari.

WAR SITUATION CLEARS

Ambassadors of Powers to Meet Thursday and Decide on the Future of Albania.

By Associated Press.
LONDON, May 6.—King Nicholas will abdicate the throne of Montenegro in the near future, according to a telegram received here from a correspondent at Constantinople.

The King, having placed the future of Scutari in the hands of the European Powers, the settlement of the Albanian trouble now depends upon whether Esad Pasha and David Pasha will obey the orders sent by the Sublime Porte to withdraw their armies to the Turkish Empire.

It is believed that as Montenegro has abandoned Scutari, Esad Pasha will recognize the futility of his aspirations to the kingship of Albania, in the face of the threatened Austro-Italian expedition to expel him.

One of the Ambassadors, at the close of the ambassadorial conference here, said: "The situation is saved and the crisis is past. The reported Austro-Italian action in Albania has no point now."

Another meeting of the Ambassadors will be held Thursday, when arrangements with regard to the future of Scutari and Albania will be discussed. The telegram from King Nicholas to Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Secretary, announcing that he had surrendered, was as follows:

"My dignity and that of my people do not allow me to submit to isolated orders. I, therefore, place the destiny of Scutari in the hands of the great Powers."

RASMUSSEN GETS BACK

Returns From 3 Years' Study of Greenland Eskimos.

COPENHAGEN, May 6.—The expedition under Knud Rasmussen, the Danish explorer, after a three years' absence in Greenland, has returned to Copenhagen, where he will remain for some time. Rasmussen left Copenhagen in July, 1910, to trace the migration of the Greenland Eskimos from the northern shores of the American Continent and to ascertain their origin. It was also his intention to try to find Crocker's Island, which was seen by Robert E. Peary, and he aimed to make an exploration over the inland ice.

LORD WILL WED ACTRESS

Young Lord Fitz-Gerald Engaged to Musical Comedy Girl.

LONDON, May 6.—Lord Edward Fitz-Gerald, a brother of the Duke of Leinster and a Lieutenant in the Irish Guards, will marry this month Miss Etheridge, an English musical comedy actress. Both are 21.

Miss Etheridge first appeared under George Edwards at the Gaiety Theater at the age of 13.

HUSBAND'S FINAL DECISION

Results in Great Happiness for North Carolina Lady, as Told in Following Advice.

Mrs. Helen L. Dalton of this place, says: "I suffered for years with pains in my left side and would often almost smother to death. 'Medicines patched me up for a while, but then I would get worse again. 'Finally, my husband decided he wanted me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, so he bought me a bottle and I began using it. It did me more good than all the medicines I had taken. 'I have induced many of my friends to try Cardui, and they all say they have been benefited by its use."

"There never has been, and never will be, a medicine to compare with Cardui."

"I believe it is a good medicine for all womanly troubles."—Draper, N. C.

You can rely absolutely on Cardui, the woman's tonic.

For more than 60 years, practically an average lifetime, it has been going right to the seat of most forms of womanly trouble, building up the weakened organs to their natural state, thereby restoring strength and health.

In this half century of time, it has helped more than a million women. Why shouldn't it do the same for you?

Get a bottle of Cardui today.

23 ARE BITTEN IN FOUR DAYS BY ST. LOUIS DOGS

Eight Reported for Monday
Give That Day Unenviable Record for Year Thus Far.

STATE SENATOR A VICTIM

Dog Shipped From Chicago Two Days Before Bites Mother of the Donor.

The police reported eight persons bitten Monday by dogs. This is the high record for the year and makes 23 persons bitten in four days.

Clarence Brune, 10 years old, 8507 North Twenty-second street, and James Flaherty, 18, 4541 DeSoto avenue, were bitten, the police believe, by the same stray cur. Brune was bitten on the right wrist at Twenty-second street and Bremen avenue. Flaherty was attacked at Clay and Carter avenues and bitten on the right leg.

Johanna Rodgers, 64 years old, 930A Market street, was bitten on the right hand by a dog which her daughter shipped her two days ago from Chicago. A dog belonging to Frank Bird, 1211 North Sixteenth street, the police said, bit Janice Emmendorfer, 7 years old, of the same address on the right shoulder. The police summoned Bird into court, charged with having an unlicensed dog.

Sol Ludwig, 4 years old, 415 Morgan street, was bitten on the left cheek by a dog owned by Oscar Srenco, 908 North Tenth street. Dr. G. J. Hermann cauterized the bite. The police served Srenco with a summons for failing to have his dog licensed.

Matilda Dyer of 1825 Wash street was served with a summons to appear in Police Court and explain why her dog was not licensed, after it bit Adele Strauss, 5 years old, on the right leg. Adele lives with her parents at 1011 North Eighteenth street. She was passing the corner of Eighteenth and Wash streets when bitten.

Carr street police Monday reported that State Senator Henry Cain of Bloomfield, Mo., was bitten on the left leg by a dog owned by Thomas Posey, 1212 Wash street, Sunday. The Senator was passing the Posey home when attacked. Posey was summoned into court for not having a license for his dog. Senator Cain was attended at the drug store of A. Feigenbaum.

While playing in front of his home at 11 p. m. Monday, Henry Lynn, 8 years old, 1623 North Twelfth street, was bitten on the right shoulder by a dog owned by M. Gbigniewski, 1800 North Twelfth street. Dr. Kennedy of 1118A Cass avenue attended the boy.

WILLIAMS HELD WITHOUT BAIL FOR LA COUNT DEATH

Widow of Victim Tells of Her Meetings With Kansas City Art Student.

CHICAGO, May 6.—Joseph A. Williams of Kansas City, Mo., was recommended to be held to the grand jury to stand bail for the killing of Leon La Count, who is 22 years old and has a wife in Kansas City, shot La Count when the latter attacked him Sunday for attentions to Mrs. La Count. Williams is an art student and had been hanging round her.

The testimony developed that La Count had spent two days with his 30-year-old bride before he went to his duty as Government Inspector on the Panama Canal and that improper conduct, if any, between Williams and Mrs. La Count, took place on only one occasion, when they knew the husband's return was imminent and they did not expect to see each other again.

Mrs. La Count told of her secret marriage in February and her husband's departure two days later. She met Williams, she said, in February, at a dance hall.

"We were not introduced," she said, "but I danced with him several times, and he said he would see me there again the next Wednesday."

Mrs. La Count told of other dances, balls and walks with Williams, ending with their last visit to the dance pavilion and an attack on her in Jackson Park.

Mrs. C. I. Lingo Testifies Husband Used About $20,000 and Abandoned Her.

Mrs. Carrie I. Lingo, 2630 North Twelfth street, testified in Judge Taylor's court Monday that her husband, Thomas T. Lingo, abandoned her after he had used up about $20,000 of her inheritance from her father, the late G. H. Hall.

Mrs. Lingo was a widow when she married Lingo, Oct. 25, 1929. They lived at Muskogee, Ok., when, on March 25, 1931, Lingo sent his wife to St. Louis and promised to join her here later, she said. This he failed to do, she declared. Mrs. Lingo asserted that her husband would borrow money from her and go on long sprees. Considerable of her inheritance, she said, was used by him in speculations on the stock markets. The last $400 he got was used to buy "tin can" stock, Mrs. Lingo said. This investment turned out badly.

STENOGRAPHER DRIVING AUTO HITS WOMAN AND CHILD

Miss Alada Stortzum Turns Short and Knocks Down Mrs. Agness Delaney With Baby.

6-YEAR-OLD BOY INJURED

Paris Stuber Taken Home by Automobilists, Who Break
Promise to Call Doctor.

A woman, a man and two children were injured Monday in St. Louis by automobiles. The occupants of one car did not stop to care for the person injured, but fled at full speed. The occupants of another left the scene of the accident without giving their names. The police have the numbers of both machines.

Mrs. Agness Delaney, 3600 Olive street, and her 15-month-old son, Leo, were knocked down and injured at Grand avenue and Lindell boulevard by an automobile driven by Miss Alada M. Stortzum of 2343 South Spring avenue, a stenographer, and owned by her fiancé, Gustav L. Kruckemeyer.

The child's nose was broken and Mrs. Delaney was painfully bruised. Miss Stortzum was arrested on a charge of violating the traffic laws by turning short at the corner. She was released on bond after asking the police to summon Kruckemeyer. Mrs. Delaney and her child were crossing the street when the auto turned the corner and struck them.

Boy With Cream, Cone Hurt.

Paris Stuber, 6-year-old son of Oscar Stuber of 1315 Chouteau avenue, was knocked several feet when he was hit by a black touring car occupied by two men at 3 o'clock Monday night. He was struck attempting to cross the street to return home after buying an ice cream cone at a confectionery store. He was internally injured and it is thought his skull is fractured.

The men stopped the car and carried the boy to his home. When Mrs. Stuber opened the door the men asked where a doctor could be found, and were told by Mrs. Stuber. They left the boy at the house and departed. They did not return or summon a physician. Mrs. Stuber called the police and had the boy removed to the city hospital.

Earl C. Riddle, 25 years old, an employee of the Overland Automobile Co., and Charles Wood, 25, a shoe salesman, both living at 3526 Washington avenue, were arrested Tuesday on charges of careless driving. They admitted, the police say, that they were the occupants of the car which struck the Stuber boy, and that Riddle was driving the auto. They told the police that the boy ran in front of the machine.

Clerk Out and Bruised.
Oliver C. Berach, 21 years old, a clerk, living at 1888 Simple avenue, was knocked down by an automobile going west on Park boulevard at high speed as he got off of a Page car at Simple avenue. He was out and bruised about the back, legs and arms. The auto did not stop.

INJURED WOMAN STILL UNCONSCIOUS

Mrs. Mabrey Insensible Since She Was Struck by Automobile
Four Days Ago.

Mrs. Annie B. Mabrey of Kirkwood, wife of Thomas W. Mabrey, chief deputy surveyor of the port, entered Tuesday on her fourth day of unconsciousness since she was injured by an automobile Friday.

Her husband waited in the city hospital corridor for any news of returning consciousness. Her daughter was also there for a part of the time. While the hospital physicians think Mrs. Mabrey's chance of recovery small, her vitality has surprised them.

Her skull was fractured. Two pieces of bone have been removed from the left side of the skull. Mrs. Mabrey is 45 years old.

McLAUGHRY, 74, QUILTS AS LEAVENWORTH WARDEN

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., May 6.—Major Robert Wilson McLaughry, for the 14 years warden of the Federal Penitentiary here, has forwarded his resignation to the Department of Justice. The warden, 74 years old, says he thinks he "has been on the job long enough."

Warden McLaughry was probably better informed on prison affairs than any other man in America. He served 18 years as warden of the Illinois State Prison at Joliet, ending this service in 1888, when he was appointed Superintendent of the Industrial Reformatory at Huntington, Pa. Three years later he became Superintendent of the Chicago Police Department and later was Superintendent of the Illinois State Reformatory at Pontiac.

He was known as the "Humane Warden." His advice to his subordinates was "treat a prisoner like a man—make man of him." Under these methods prisoners were put upon their honor to observe the rules. Authorities who have visited Leavenworth have hailed it as "the perfectly disciplined prison."

The sanitary, white enameled cast iron ovens in "Buck's" Gas Stoves are creating a great sensation amongst neat housewives.

France Wins Case Against Italy.
THE HAGUE, Netherlands, May 6.—The Franco-Italian court of arbitration dealing with the seizure by Italian warships during the Turco-Italian war of the French steamers Carthage and Maubou decided today that Italy was in the wrong and condemned the Italian Government to pay $32,000 and $800 in the respective cases.

Continuing With Most Drastic Reductions, This Mid-Spring Clearing Sale of Women's Apparel

FOR Wednesday we will have re-arranged many of the price-groups so that one may find the same out-of-the-ordinary values in stylish, up-to-date garments that made Monday one of the best days of the season.

We are determined to dispose of all Spring garments in order to give over our entire space to Wash Garments for Mid-Summer wear.

And that is the only reason why such drastic reductions have been taken at this time.

Women's $65 to $85 Evening and Afternoon Dresses, $39.50

This proved one of the most popular collections in the entire sale, and we accordingly reinforced it with many more desirable costumes for afternoon and evening wear.

There are charming Gowns of chiffon, crepe de chine, crepe meteor, charmeuse, brocade and Canton crepe, and the new material combinations.

Come in light and dark shades as well as white, and you may choose a splendid little frock, which formerly was $65 or up to $85, tomorrow at the price of $39.50.

$49.50 to $60 Afternoon and Evening Dresses Are Now $25

Made of chiffon, crepe meteor, charmeuse, crepe de chine and Mandarin crepes, in newest Spring and Summer styles.

$25 to $35 Afternoon, Dancing and Street Frocks Are Now $14.50

Made of crepe de chine, meters, brocades, serges, eponges, ratine and chiffons—light and dark shades.

Radical Reductions Are the Order in Women's Suits

$18.50 to $29.75 New Spring Suits Are Now Priced $15

Women's Suits of serges, checks, stripes, corded fabrics and worsteds—in light and dark colors.

$35 to $59.75 New Spring Tailored Suits Are Now $25

Plain tailored, fancy trimmed and blouse styles—of serges, worsteds, eponges, Bedford cords, needle cords and fancy stripes.

Women's Spring Coats Reduced to $19.75 and $24.75

Imagine buying the cleverest styles of the Spring—Coats which can well be worn throughout the Summer months, especially at seaside and mountain resorts—and at such small prices as $19.75 and $24.75.

These fashionable garments are of newest bengaline, brocatelle, moire, brocade, charmeuse, eponge, ratine, serge diagonals, basket weaves and imported materials with reversible backs, leather mixture, poplin, imported chevrons, chinchilla in light colors, mohair, pongee, taffeta and mistral. Choice, Wednesday, $19.75 and $24.75.

TWO MEN CAUGHT IN A HOLDUP, BOTH DODGE THE BLAME

Each Declares Other Planned Robbery of Vermont Avenue Woman Confectioner.

Harold Hopper, 19 years old, of Kansas City, and John Shaughnessy, 22, of Carondelet, Tuesday told Capt. Gaffney of the Carondelet Police District the parts they played in the attempted robbery Monday night of Mrs. Ida Kelchmeier, a widow, in her store at 7428 Vermont avenue.

Capt. Gaffney says Hopper told him that he bought a revolver after Shaughnessy had suggested that the robbery of the widow's store would be easy. He declared, according to Capt. Gaffney, that Shaughnessy "got cold feet" and ran away after Mrs. Kelchmeier had knocked the weapon from his hand and screamed for help.

Shaughnessy denied that he planned the robbery, saying he consented to aid Hopper, who told him a romantic story of many robberies he had committed in Kansas City.

The youths were captured by the police after they had been chased several blocks by neighbors and the police. They were taken into Mrs. Kelchmeier's store at 7 p. m. Monday and asked for

JAPAN UNEXCITED BY CALIFORNIA'S ALIEN LAND LAW

Passage of Bill Is Viewed With Equanimity by Tokio Government.

By Associated Press. TOKIO, May 6.—Announcement of the final passage of the alien land ownership bill by the California Legislature created no excitement in Tokyo.

Government officials, the press and the leaders in all walks are counseling patience and dependence on the evident determination of the American Government and the vast majority of American people to treat Japan with friendliness and fairness.

The agitators and those who have been making hysterical outcries against the proposed legislation have disappeared and the sudden cessation of the excitement is taken to indicate that it was largely manufactured.

Undoubtedly, however, a deep feeling of disappointment and humiliation pervades the nation. An official protest now is in course of preparation.

Keishiro Matsui, vice-minister of the foreign office, expressed, in an interview, the Japanese Government's appreciation of the attitude of the Government, the press and the people of the United States. He deprecates the violent utterances, which he designates as nonsensical.

"The Government and people of Japan," the minister said, "must endeavor to discover the fundamental cause of the differences and preserve the rights and dignity of the people of respective countries by the friendliest exchange of views on the part of both Governments."

THIEVES GET 143 $100 BILLS SENT TO CALIFORNIA BANK

Government Agents Search Continent for Men Who Replaced Money With Paper.

OAKLAND, Cal., March 6.—It became known here today that the theft of 143 $100 bills, in an express package sent from Washington, D. C., to the Central National Bank of this city is stirring up special agents clear across the continent.

When the package reached the bank here a few days ago, the wrapping was found to contain merely clipped magazine pages of the same size and weight as bank notes.

Government officials of the National Bank Redemption office in Washington, have notified the bank that the package was properly sealed and stamped before being turned over

REPORT THAT TURKEY'S SULTAN WILL ABDICATE

Heir to Throne Objects to Having Change Made When Nation Is at War.

LONDON, May 6.—The Daily Chronicle's Constantinople correspondent writes: "Rumors are frequent here that the Sultan has several times of late insisted on abdicating. The heir to the throne, Prince Yusef Izzeddine, however, it is said, maintains that he cannot take the throne at this juncture and holds that a change at present would be highly unwise."

"The Government dares not entrust the throne to anyone else. If, however, Kiamli Pasha returned to power—a not improbable contingency—common report has it that he favors Prince Mahid Eddin Effendi. The Turks would like Prince Medjid Effendi, who is third in the order of succession. He is high-minded and erudite, but not a strong man."

"The enlightened section of the population is beginning to demand the salvation of the country. Mahmud Shekret has forbidden Kiamli Pasha and Ferid Pasha to re-enter the country."

Severe Cough Led to Lung Trouble

Sufferers with Lung Trouble are rarely willing to acknowledge the fact. If you have a so-called "cold" that has long persisted; or a cough that keeps you anxious; or any of the symptoms of Lung Trouble, such as fever, night sweats, weakness, loss of appetite or perhaps some raising of mucus, take Eckman's Alternative—as Mr. Bettersworth did.

Betttersworth, Green, Ky., R. No. 4, writes: "Gentlemen: The spring of 1911 I had a severe cough for six months. I tried all the medicine that my doctors recommended to me but no results came for the better. At last, James Dearing of Glasgow, Scotland, advised me to try your medicine. I had taken several bottles of it and as well as ever in my life. I desire the world to know that I firmly believe that your Eckman's Alternative will cure any case of Lung Trouble if taken before the last stage."

Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be most effective in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stomachic Colds and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. Sold by Babcock Drug Co., Wash. D. C., and other leading druggists. Write the Eckman Laboratories, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence.

Drastic New Anti-Alien Land Bill to Be Voted On in California.
SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 6.—State Senator Sanford, Democratic National Committeeman from California and leader of the anti-Japanese element in the Legislature, announced today that a radical anti-alien land bill would be submitted to the voters of the State under the initiative provision of the Constitution. It will be far more drastic than the Webb-Boynton bill, now in the hands of the Governor.

In the ordinary course of procedure, such a bill would not come before the people for ratification until November, 1913. Meanwhile signatures will be obtained to subject the Webb-Boynton act under the referendum and both will be placed on the ballot at that time.

Japanese Emperor Gets First Hand Facts on California Sentiment.
SAN FRANCISCO, May 6.—Tokio dispatches to the New World, a Japanese morning newspaper, states that the Emperor is taking a personal interest in the anti-alien land bill passed by the California Legislature and granted an audience yesterday to Baron K. Kaneko, who headed the commission appointed to select a site for the Japanese building at the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco. The correspondent says the Emperor desired first-hand information as to the feeling in California.

Arizona Outstrips California in Anti-Alien Land Bill.
PHOENIX, Ariz., May 6.—To take the place of the unenforced measure enacted a year ago, the lower house of the Legislature passed an anti-alien land ownership bill far more drastic than the California legislation on the same subject. The act prohibits any alien who has not declared intention to become a citizen from acquiring title to real property.

Opponents of the bill, who wanted exempt foreigners who were eligible to citizenship, but did not care to forewear allegiance to their native land, were able to muster but six votes.

The bill was sent to the Senate where present prospects point to early passage.

THOUSAND BLIND PERSONS "SEE" PLAY AT THEATER
Follow Story of "Within the Law" After Reading Raised-Letter Synopsis of Plot.
NEW YORK, May 6.—About 1000 blind persons attended performance of "Within the Law" in the Eltinge Theater yesterday afternoon.

Programs printed in the raised alphabet were distributed. Preceding each act Benjamin Borstein, a blind lawyer, read a brief synopsis of the act to follow. A synopsis of the plot had been printed in the Ziegler Magazine, and with guides scattered throughout the auditorium the audience had no difficulty in following the story. Indeed, from the swiftest with which murmurs of disapproval, laughter and applause followed the various speeches and situations, it appeared that the audience grasped the story more speedily than do those not so handicapped.

"I have never experienced anything like this in my life," said Jane Cowell, of the company. "When I first appeared hand-cuffed to the detective there was nothing to tell the audience except the clamor of a door and the clank of a chain that the principal character was on the stage, and yet they knew the story and applauded. The shock of it almost bowled me off my feet. I have never played to such an audience. They got the comedy a hundred times quicker than the average audience, anticipating it almost. And the fact that they could not see the action did not seem to make the slightest difference."

Hill to Read Bible in Schools.
HARRISBURG, Pa., May 6.—Ten verses of the Bible will be read each day in the public schools of Pennsylvania if a House bill passed by the Senate is approved by the Governor. Penalties for violation of the proposed law is dismissal of any teacher.

U. S. RECOGNITION OF MEXICO HINGES ON CLAIMS ISSUE

Washington Wants International Commission to Pass on Bills for Damage.

ARRANGEMENTS PROGRESS

Loan to Huerta Government Likely to Be Held Up Until Washington Acts.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MEXICO CITY, May 6.—Negotiations between the State Department at Washington and the Mexican Foreign Ministry regarding recognition of the Huerta administration have progressed rapidly in the last few days, according to authentic information obtained by the Post-Dispatch correspondent.
The United States Government demands as the consideration for extending to the provisional administration official countenance, acceptance by Mexico of an international commission to pass upon all claims for damages sustained by foreigners, either to persons or to property since the beginning of the revolutionary disorders in the Republic. Washington officials insisted upon this. While intimations which lacked nothing in clearness have been made along this line to Mexico, they have been so diplomatic as not to offend the dignity of the Government or strain the relations between the two countries.

Driving a Sharp Bargain.
Washington is playing a shrewd diplomatic game. President Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan saw in Huerta's anxiety for recognition an opportunity to place the important and troublesome question of the foreign claims on a basis which will be decidedly more satisfactory not only to Washington, but to England, France, Germany, Spain and other European Governments than it is at present.

While Mexico has never shown any inclination to shirk responsibility, so far as foreign claims are concerned, circumstances have developed to prevent the expediting of settlement to the extent that Washington desired.
Taft and Knox pondered over the subject, but did nothing. Left to himself, Ambassador Wilson took the trouble to interest himself in it. For any claims save these in which friends and persons he liked were interested. One of the first things the Huerta Government did when it took hold was to pledge itself to prompt adjustment and payment of claims, especially those of Americans.

Washington's desire to get the proposition shaped so that something definite may be accomplished is due in no small measure to the polite but somewhat persistent and pointed interrogations propounded to Secretary Bryan by foreign governments. All look to the United States to induce Mexico to pay.

As outlined to the Mexican Foreign Ministry, Washington's proposition is simple, being predicated on Mexico's repeated declarations accepting responsibility and promising payment.

The joint commission proposed is to consist of representatives of Mexico, the United States, England, France, Germany, Spain and possibly two or three other countries. By international agreement it will consider all claims and its decision, when accepted by the respective governments, shall be final.

Mexican Loan Held Up.
Whether Mexico will enter into this bargain cannot now be predicted. It is certain the idea does not appeal to her to such a degree as to warrant the expectation that she will give it prompt, enthusiastic approval. Whether the plan goes through depends upon several things. If Mexico gets the loan of $50,000 pesos, which is in abeyance, and if the Federal army is speedily triumphant in the most important centers of the rebellion, the question of recognition by the United States might not be so vital or desirable as it now seems to be.

Some persons in touch with the Mexican Government incline to the belief that a question of recognition by Washington is having something to do with the delay in consummating this foreign loan which, it is generally understood, was arranged with a French banking syndicate a week ago. It is significant that no group of American financiers has shown any interest in the loan. Apparently they do not care to undertake any business with a government which is not recognized by Washington.

JUDGE 'SOAKS' MILLINER, GETTING 'EVEN' AT LAST

Tells Lawyer in 10-Hour Labor Case, "It Is Easily Seen You Are Not Married."

CHICAGO, May 6.—Judge Uhler today
"got even with the milliners" when he found William Ravid, charged with violating the 10-hour law, $10 and costs on one charge and $5 on another.
Lillian Boyesen and Fern Curtis, employes, testified that they worked more than 10 hours April 28.

"This is the first time the Court ever has had a chance at the proprietor of a millinery store," said Judge Uhler, smiling. "Milliners have had me at their mercy for a long time and this is the time I ever had one at my mercy."
"Well, Your Honor, just because a man is a milliner is no reason why he should be fined," pleaded Ravid's attorney.

"It is easily seen you are not a married man," said the Court. "I have been 'soaked' by milliners ever since my honeymoon many years ago. Now I'll get even."

A SOUVENIR ASH TRAY to every purchaser of a 5c pouch of MASCOT for a few days only

MEN—

Let Me Introduce My Good, New Tobacco to You

You can walk up to your tobacconist's today and for 5 cents buy more GOOD tobacco than ever you could before. Just ask for MASCOT.

My tobacco is actually a ten-cent pipe-or-cigarette tobacco, and I sell it for 5 cents. How can I do it?

Here's the idea—instead of packing 10-cent quality and quantity in a tin box, I put it in an inexpensive but serviceable cloth pouch. You are not made to pay for a tin box. You don't smoke tin, why make you pay for it? Tin boxes cost the manufacturer a great deal of money—so he passes the buck to the buyer.

After I was sure my tobacco-quality was the best Kentucky could grow, I said—instead of charging a dime for MASCOT I'll cut out that goat-fodder tin package and sell MASCOT in a convenient, soft, pocket-fitting cloth pouch for 5 cents.

My mind ran something like this—

- (1) Grandpa sliced his off a plug—he sure had plenty of time and patience!
- (2) Father got his already sliced—but he had to crumble it in his hands, and the tobacco was always "streaky."
- (3) Mr. "Last Year" poured his out of a tin—paid half his dime for the tin and felt like he was carrying a tool kit around in a bulgy pocket all the time.

So I said: MASCOT is for Mr. "Up-to-date."

MASCOT

There was never one like it—for pipe and cigarette

I'll give him his in a cloth pouch—the best dime quality tobacco, but he pays only 5 cents for it and every cent buys tobacco.

Just to introduce MASCOT, I'm giving a premium today

Post-Dispatch Pure Milk Fund Opens Its Ninth Season Today

Thyrus Dramatic Society of Washington University Will Give Big Fund Benefit Next Week, Presenting "The World and His Wife" at Victoria Theater—St. Louis Pure Milk Commission in Sore Need of Money for Summer's Work—Save the Babies!

SAVE THE BABIES!

Twenty Dollars will save the life of one baby by giving pure modified milk. EVERY DOLLAR HELPS.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

The Post-Dispatch$200.00

While the great Peace Congress in St. Louis this past week set the whole world thinking and talking anew about universal peace, the arbitration of international disputes, the disarmament of nations and the abolishing of war, the little babies of the poor, down in the city's tenement districts, rapidly were nearing their battle for life against the summer's deadly heat.

And because of their peril the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund today begins its ninth annual season of helpful service in behalf of these endangered tots of the tenements. To win their battle for life they need all the help possible from folks who are not willing to see babies die for sheer lack of help.

The Post-Dispatch opens the fund with a contribution of $200.

Coincident with the Pure Milk Fund's opening the Post-Dispatch is enabled to announce the first big fund benefit of the new season. This benefit has been generously tendered by Thyrus, the famous dramatic society of Washington University.

On Thursday evening, May 16, at the Victoria Theater, Thyrus will give a performance of "The World and His Wife," the powerful drama translated by Frederic Nirdlinger from the Spanish of Jose Echegaray, in which Thyrus scored such a brilliant success on the occasion of its own annual performance on April 9 last.

The entire proceeds of the play's forthcoming presentation, less the actual cost of production, will go to the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund to help save the tenement babies.

Pure Milk Fund's Good Work.

During the eight years of its existence, this fund, established and maintained by the Post-Dispatch's readers, has been the medium through which a grand total of $97,743.70 has been contributed to aid the great work of the St. Louis Pure Milk Commission in distributing pure milk to the babies of the city's crowded districts and the similarly good work of the Free Ice and Sick Diet Circle of the King's Daughters in delivering free ice to the needy sick and to the mothers of the tenement babies to keep cool and wholesome the pure milk supply.

This grand total means a yearly average of $12,217.96 contributed by the Post-

ROBERT A. ROESSEL and RITA MONTEATH

Dispatch's readers to these splendidly helpful undertakings.

The St. Louis Pure Milk Commission is not operated as a charity. If the applicants for pure milk are able to pay, they are charged one cent per bottle for the small size, two cents for the larger size, and three cents for what are known as "whole-milk" sizes. A deposit of 2 cents is required for each bottle taken, this being returned when the bottle is brought back.

Thus, while the babies of destitute parents are supplied with pure milk free of charge, such persons as are able to pay a nominal price are expected to do so. The St. Louis Pure Milk Commission could not be operated on this basis without the aid of generous contributions.

Secretary Herbert E. Mortland of the St. Louis Pure Milk Commission writes to the Post-Dispatch that now, at the beginning of the arduous summer work, the commission is sorely in need of help.

"The balance on hand Feb. 14," he announces, "was $1513.02, and at present this sum has been exhausted and there is not enough money in the treasury to meet our bills. You will note from our report that we fed over 950 individual babies in the past year, which was a large number, considering the moderate summer that we had. From the present indications, the way applicants are coming in, we are going to have one of the largest years, if not the largest, in the history of the commission. I am enclosing you a copy of the last annual statement and a list of the Pure Milk Stations. The commission will more than appreciate any services which the Post-Dispatch will render them this coming summer."

The Post-Dispatch hopes that it may be enabled to answer this appeal by breaking all earlier records of the Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund during the summer now soon to open. The biggest total for any one summer was that of 1911, when the Post-Dispatch's readers contributed $4972.91 to the fund.

It will be fine if the $5000 mark is reached and passed this season. It will be finer still if a total of $10,000 is contributed to the fund, which defrays the entire cost of the distribution of free ice by the King's Daughters, and which assists the St. Louis Pure Milk Commission to maintain its pure milk stations in those sections of the city where its great work is so vitally necessary.

Send in your contributions to the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund. Every dollar goes directly to the splendid service for which the fund was established and is maintained. Every dollar helps to save the lives of the little babies of the tenements and of the destitute sick. And every dollar you contribute will add to your own happiness through the knowledge that you are helping others less happy and less fortunate than you.

The Great Thyrus Benefit Performance.

The great benefit performance so generously tendered by Thyrus of Washington University, creates an especial opportunity to enjoy an evening's delightful entertainment, while at the same time contributing to the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund for the tenement babies and the destitute sick. "The World and His Wife" is an absorbingly interesting play, intensely dramatic and gripping in its lines and situations. It scored a brilliant success when presented on a professional stage in St. Louis by William Faversham and his company a season or so ago. It was admirably played by a Thyrus cast last month. The same cast will appear in its performance for the benefit of the Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund at the Victoria Theater on Thursday evening of next week. This cast of characters, in order of first appearance, is:

Donna Teodora, Miss Mildred De Courcy.
Don Julian, Mr. C. Eugene Smith.
Don Ernesto, Mr. Robert A. Roessel.
Don Severo, Mr. Sam De Kins.
Donna Mercedes, Miss Rita Monteath.
Don Pepito, Mr. William Carter.
Capt. Bauleu, Mr. Moulton Green.
Genaro, Mr. Leo McCarthy.
Servant, Mr. Paul Eilman.
The play's story teaches a heart-moving lesson of the evil power of idle gossip to bring unmerited shame and tragedy into the lives of good and clean-minded women and men. In one sense it is a "triangle" drama, but of such nobility in the loyalty and innocence of the young wife and of the man whom baseless rumor charges with being her lover as to fill one's soul with pity for the two so haplessly placed.

The first act shows the drawing-room in the Madrid home of Don Julian, the husband, a wealthy Spanish aristocrat, who is about to be named as his country's Ambassador to a great foreign government. The scene of the second act is laid in the Alvarado Studio apartment of Don Ernesto, falsely accused of making love to Donna Teodora, wife of Don Julian. The third act has the same setting as the first.

The performance will be directed by Mr. Joseph Solari, under whose skillful management the most memorable Thyrus triumphs have been scored. The scale of prices will be $1 for all downstairs seats and 75

SAY GOOD-BY TO STOMACH TROUBLE TAKE SAMUEL'S "3-P" CAPSULES

What's the use of worrying along with a bad stomach, can't eat things that you see others eating and enjoying all the time, when there is such an absolute relief from indigestion and all stomach distress waiting for you at any drug store in this prescription after the formula of a noted French specialist, put up in sealed, easy-to-take gelatin capsules, unlike sickening pills and tablets.

If you are getting discouraged because of a growing belief that your "stomach is worn out" you owe it to yourself to give Samuel's "3-P" a chance. In thousands of cases it has quickly transformed these clouds of despondency into the sunshine of hopeful cheerfulness, as in the case of Mrs. Joe Essenhood, a prominent matron of East Liverpool, Ohio, who says: "My experience with your '3-P' proves it a wonderful medicine. I was so weak, nervous and rundown that I could not walk. I am now assisting with my housework and feeling well and strong."

Ask your druggist for Samuel's 3-P capsules on every packet. Trade Mark of the figure 3 in the large letter P.

PORTUGAL SENDS 200 RADICALS TO AZORES FOR TRIAL

Ultra-Republicans Who Tried to Overthrow Government Will Be Courtmartialled.

LISBON, May 6.—The Portuguese Government has dispatched all the political prisoners arrested for complicity in the last attempt to overthrow the present republic Sunday, April 27, to the Azores for trial and punishment. About 200 prisoners were marched at dawn yesterday on board the steamer Cabo Verde, chartered by the Government. She sailed immediately bound for Terceira Island, where the accused are to be courtmartialled in the fortress of Angra, capital of the island. The Portuguese Premier was questioned last night on the subject and replied that the prisoners had been sent to Africa under the provisions of the law giving the Government the right to choose any place for the trial of political prisoners. The families of the accused are terrified by the step taken by the Government and express fear as to what may happen to their relatives when they arrive on the remote island and are placed in the secluded strongholds.

The riots April 27 in which the prisoners were implicated were started by ultra-republicans. They gathered in groups before the barracks of Lisbon, fired revolvers, exploded small bombs and cheered for the "radical republic."

HOUSE WRECKED BY A BOMB AND TENANT IS HUNTED

Owner of Building Tells of Conduct of Frank Farrello, Who Occupied It.

An exploded bomb was found by the police Tuesday near the front steps of the story-and-a-half frame house at 4310 North Second street, which was destroyed by a terrific explosion at 10:30 p. m. Monday when an Italian family which had occupied it was absent.

In order to find an explanation for the wrecking of the house a search for Frank Farrello, his wife and their small son, Dominick, was begun. Mrs. Sarah Shepard, owner of the house, who lives next door at 129 Ferry street, told the police a strange story which is being investigated. Farrello rented the house from Mrs. Shepard about a month ago. He told her that he formerly lived in the Italian settlement known as Dago Hill, where there have been many Black Hand crimes.

Moved Little Furniture. The Farrellos, Mrs. Shepard says, moved only a small amount of furniture into the house.

It was learned Tuesday that, while known to Mrs. Shepard as Farrello, the man ran an account at a neighboring saloon under the name of Vestallo. Mrs. Shepard told a Post-Dispatch reporter that Farrello, his wife and boy left the house Sunday afternoon. He carried two suitcases and she carried two baskets.

Farrello came back to the house and entered it Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Shepard says. After remaining in the house half an hour he went to Mrs. Shepard and borrowed a spade from her, saying he wanted to plant lettuce in the rear yard.

Watches Him Dig Hole. Mrs. Shepard, she says, peeped through a crack in the fence and saw Farrello dig a small hole, less than two feet square, near the front porch. She did not watch until he finished digging. After he had returned the spade and departed, she said, she went to the yard and found that the hole at the foundation had been filled and neatly smoothed over.

The explosion Monday caused great excitement in the neighborhood. It blew down the four walls of the Farrello home and the roof collapsed into the ruins. The house caught fire and sparks ignited the roof of the Shepard home.

Mrs. Shepard's brother, Thomas Burns, a rheumatic invalid, was carried from the house. Mrs. Shepard and her daughters, Jennie and Ella, ran into the street.

Wife Tells of Threats. Mrs. Shepard's daughter, Jennie, 21 years old, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that last Saturday Mrs. Farrello told her she had lived in New Orleans and about three months ago, when she fled to escape an Italian who insisted that she marry him. She came to St. Louis, she said, and married Farrello.

A week later, according to her story, the ill-tempered man arrived in St. Louis and went to her home on Dago Hill and threatened her life. After that, she said, he twice tried to stab her and once attempted to shoot her. Since moving to North Second street, she said, she had seen the New Orleans man loitering in the neighborhood.

She also told Mrs. Margaret Hoerr of 201 Ferry street that a man had been trailing and threatening her. John Geiger, a waterworks employee, of 4310 North Second street, passed the house about 20 minutes before the explosion. He said a dark-skinned young man was emerging from the front yard. The young man stopped at the front gate and looked back at the house and then stood on the opposite corner for several minutes.

HARVEY B. GRAHAM HELD FOR FIGHT WITH PAINTER

Son of 'Change Member Under Charges After Confinement in Inebriate Ward.

A warrant charging assault and battery was issued Monday against Harvey B. Graham, a son of George L. Graham, a member of the Merchants' Exchange. He was confined in the inebriate ward at the city dispensary for several hours Monday after he had resisted efforts of Patrolman Smith to arrest him when the officer found Graham and two other men fighting in an alley at Broadway and Penrose street.

Edward Swinhart, a painter, 1102 North Park place, one of the men in the fight, told the police that Graham and another man had attacked him and tried to rob him. The other man escaped. Graham denied any intention to rob the man and declared it was a plain fight between the three.

Graham is a college graduate and had been away from the city two years. His father did not know of his return, he said, until after he was arrested.

TWO NEGRESSES ROB MAN

Prisoner Identified as One Who Got $80 and Check.

Two negroes grabbed Fred A. Bales of Oblong, Ill., near Lightteenth and Pine streets at 1:30 a. m. Tuesday, dragged him into an alley and robbed him of a purse containing $80, a check for $100 and railroad transportation.

Bales was on the way to the Marquette Hotel. The purse without the money was found in the alley. Later a negro who said she was Carrie Trammel, 29 years old, was arrested. Bales identified her as one of the robbers.

Cleveland Heat Kills St. Louisan. CLEVELAND, O., May 6.—Three deaths from excessive heat were reported yesterday, the hottest May 6 for 4 years. John Kroveck of St. Louis was stricken in the union station and died a few hours later. The official record was 86 degrees, but at the street level the temperature was 96.

GIRL WHO HAD DIAMONDS SEWED IN HEM OF DRESS

GIRL HELD ON WARRANT, HAD STOLEN DIAMONDS

Warrants Issued Against Her and Two Men After Gems Are Found Hidden.

Pansy Bradshaw, Fred Howard and Charles D. McCabe were charged in warrants issued Tuesday with receiving stolen property. They were arrested Monday in a rooming house at 2106 Olive street and diamonds worth several hundreds of dollars, stolen from a jewelry repair shop, were found sewn in the hem of Miss Bradshaw's skirt.

Several other persons who were in the rooming house at the time and who were known to have been associates of Miss Bradshaw also were arrested, but the police found no evidence to connect them with the stolen diamonds.

Pansy Bradshaw is under a 60-day sentence in the workhouse for a short-change swindle. She wears her hair clipped short and a boy's suit found in her room led the police to believe she had been masquerading as a youth.

STATE CHARGES FOR SAND

Kansas Wants $50,000 for Annual Lift From River Beds.

TOPEKA, Kan., May 6.—Kansas hereafter will receive a royalty of $50,000 for the 2,500,000 tons of sand and gravel taken from the beds of the navigable streams of the State every year.

Under a law passed recently persons engaged in the sand business must pay to the State 10 per cent of the gross amount they receive from the sale of sand and gravel they remove from navigable streams. The Executive Council today so interpreted the new law.

EMBEZZLER TELLS OF SYSTEM USED TO STEAL $15,000

H. C. Baseler Says He Had Perfect Method of Covering Peculations at Bank.

HE TIRED OF WORRYING

Declares He Showed Third National How to Detect Theft by Other Clerks.

In his first statement to the public, made as he was under arrest in the office of United States Marshal Degehhardt awaiting a bondsman, Harry C. Baseler, paying teller of the Third National Bank, Tuesday told how he had showed the bank officials how to stop the peculations of clerks, without informing them, however, how to detect his own dishonest dealings.

Baseler was arrested in the office of District Attorney Houts, where he had gone to give himself up. He was taken at once to the Marshal's office. He at first demurred to making a statement, because of the consideration that had been shown him by the bank officials since it became known that he was short $15,000.

He said that the statement issued by the bank officials was not correct in every particular. For one thing, he had not been given credit for improvements in the methods of doing business that he had worked out. For another, he said, he had shown the officials how to detect and put a stop to thefts by clerks, and they had in their statement neglected to give him credit for that.

"My system was so perfect," he said, "that even after I was suspected and an auditor who spent two days in my cage was unable to detect it. An auditor was put in there April 28 and remained there that day and the next, but he detected nothing wrong. I want to say, though, that no blame should attach to him. He did all in his power to locate the shortage, but it simply could not be done. It could not be detected by any man who might be sent in that way."

Tired of Worring.
"But I was tired of worrying about it and Friday I went to Paul Cook, the assistant cashier, and confessed to him that I was $15,000 short. He was thunderstruck. I took him to the books and showed him where I had made the false entries."

A warrant for Baseler's arrest was issued Tuesday by United States Commissioner Irvine Mitchell and placed in the hands of United States Marshal Degehhardt. The warrant followed the filing of an information by Assistant District Attorney Charles A. Houts charging Baseler with embezzling $45,647.

The amount alleged in the information, it is charged, was misappropriated by Baseler in the years 1911, 1912 and 1913. Baseler told Houts he would waive preliminary hearing. The lowest punishment for his offense is a five-year term in the Leavenworth prison, which by good behavior can be reduced to less than four years. No parole is possible.

Period of Peculations.
The District Attorney understood Baseler to say that his peculations from the bank had extended over nearly six years. Officials of the bank have said the time was from two to three years. The bank is protected by surety bonds.

Baseler, who is 23 years old and has a wife and two children, made no explanation as to what became of the $15,000, which he admits having taken. He has said that he was a "good fellow" and that his personal and household expenses have run over his salary of $240 a year, but has said nothing to indicate where so large a sum could have gone.

Bank Officers Suspicious.
His automobile, his only known extravagance, first caused the bank officers to suspect that he was living beyond his means. His statement to them, that the machine was loaned to him by a friend, quieted these suspicions for a time.

Before the suspicion arose which caused him to be watched, Baseler was not only trusted by the bank's officers, but was in line for early promotion. His alertness in capturing the Cuban, Ramon Llano, who tried to dispose of two alleged stolen $10,000 bills at the bank last winter, caused favorable comment from the officers of every bank in St. Louis.

Home a Plain Cottage.
The Baseler home at 816 Trafford lane is a white frame cottage, of plain appearance, in a rather remote section of Northwestern St. Louis. When a Post-Dispatch reporter called there Monday evening Mrs. Baseler, small, and neatly groomed, appeared at the door.

"We have lived economically here. I have brought up our three children without having ever employed help. I have sent out the washing, but that was all. I never knew what salary my husband received. He did not tell me about his financial affairs. He looked after them, as I looked after the house. He was a good husband, and one who stayed at home nights—the neighbors can testify to that."

"He will be still a young man when he has finished paying his penalty. If he must pay the penalty, I took him for better or for worse, and this is the worse, I suppose. I am sure he will take his punishment like a man, and I shall stand by him and be ready to help him restore our home life when he is free once more. How I shall support myself and the children in the meantime, I don't know. It seems as if our only hope is in the Lord."

Skirts Narrower, Waist Lines Movable Marguerite Martyn Finds Styles Worse and More of 'Em

American National Committee Completes Planning Women's Gowns for Next Season.

By Marguerite Martyn.

MORE and more of 'em! That seems to be the agreement arrived at by the American National Style Committee, just adjourned and hurrying back to their sewing rooms to get busy on next season's styles.

In America we women must either submit sweetly to the ready-made clothing manufacturer's authority or produce a feminine K. M. Landis to bust the dressmaker trust.

At present this committee of 200 critics, reviewers, designers, manufacturers and delineators is to be accepted as a supreme court from whose verdict there is no appeal.

Now, maybe, you have not got through gasping at the present season's most extreme fashions, the split skirt, petticoats, waist-line-less, corsetless, collarless gown.

Skirts are to be much narrower, which will necessitate a much higher slash. Nothing more definite is given out about this detail, so prepare yourself for better or for worse.

Mandolin sleeves with long cuffs are given the preference. And, oh, blessed surprise, the décollete has reached its limit, so collars will go to the other extreme and button up around the ears with fur toppling them.

Millinery Will Be a Riot of Colors.

COLORS are to vary and attain degrees never attempted by the rainbow, we are told. Already an assemblage of hatted women looks like a big basket of Easter eggs.

The milliners will, no doubt, have the sympathy of the post impressionists and futurists among artists who have been so handicapped by the limited spectrum.

900 TELEPHONE GIRLS TO GET INCREASE PAY

Advance Announced for St. Louis and Suburban Operators Is About 24 Per Cent.

An increase in the salaries of the 900 young women telephone operators employed in St. Louis and its suburbs by the Southwestern Telephone and Telegraph Co., formerly the Belle Telephone Co., was announced Monday by W. J. Hies, general manager of the company.

The increase will average about $9 a year for each girl. The aggregate annual increase authorized by the directors amounts to about $75,000.

The operators and employees will participate also in a sick benefit fund, a case of illness, and their families are protected against accident and death by insurance policies, the premiums of which will be paid by the company. The new payroll of the operators will amount to an increase of approximately 24 per cent over the present salaries.

The salary of an apprentice operator is fixed at $20 a month. She receives an increase of $2.50 every three months until her pay reaches $30 monthly. After that period the salary will be advanced $2.50 a month until she receives $50 a month. The pay of the chief operator will be $80 a month.

20 WEDDINGS IN PARTY

Immigrant Brides Meet Bridegrooms at New York Port. NEW YORK, May 6.—Twenty blushing brides ran down the gangplank of the steamship California into the arms of 20 eager bridegrooms.

Gladness reigned until the immigration authorities found that eleven of the girls did not have papers to prove their identity and told them they could not remain unless they were married first at Ellis Island, the immigration detention station. When the other 12 heard this they said they would all stand together and the 20 couples left for the island to find a clergyman. The prospective brides came from Scotland and Ireland and the immigration authorities said they were the prettiest that ever came here to be married.

REPORTERS KEEP FAITH

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 6.—Rather than divulge the source of their information on which a newspaper item was based, J. O. Abernathy, Claude McCaleb, Joseph J. Fox and Charles F. Paker, newspaper reporters, each served an hour in jail yesterday. They were held in contempt of court by District Judge Buck.

The item in question related to the indictment of a man charged with attempting to bribe a former County Judge. Judge Buck held that the item was published before the indictment was returned in open court.

FRIENDS BELIEVE A. D. BROWN WILL REGAIN HEALTH

Said to Have Worried Greatly Over Business Affairs in Recent Months.

The nervous breakdown from which A. D. Brown, millionaire president of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co., is suffering at a hotel in San Antonio, Tex., is said by his business friends on Washington avenue to be due largely to business worries and litigation with which the public is familiar, during the past two or three years.

Brown went to San Antonio for his health in January. His health, according to his business associates, has been falling during the past two or three years. Members of his family, while they realize that he is very sick, express no fear that his present illness will terminate fatally.

Business associates of the head of the shoe company say that Brown worried over the fact that two or three years ago the business of his company dropped back almost $1,000,000 in a year, and another shoe company, which had been his keenest business rival, forged ahead of him in the volume of its sales. For many years Brown took a great pride in the fact that the sales of his company were the largest of any shoe house in the world, and this fact, he advertised extensively.

Stock Sale Worried Him.
Soon after this there was a deal in the stock of his company which caused him much worry. His son-in-law, V. P. McElroy, who owned $500,000 worth of the stock, exchanged it for the fee to the Victoria Building at Eighth and Locust streets. Harvey W. Christie, who had long been counsel for the shoe company and also a very close personal friend of Brown, negotiated the deal for the purchase of the stock by M. M. Stephens, former Mayor of East St. Louis; C. L. Gray and others.

There was a sharp decline in the price of the stock after the trade. Christie, fearing that his friends were going to lose money on the deal, became so worried over it that it was necessary for him to be sent to a sanatorium. Christie has not recovered his health.

For many years it had been the policy of the shoe company to see that its stock was held only by persons directly connected with the firm. Two years ago Thomas H. Burrow, president of the Burrow, Jones & Dyer Shoe Co., who formerly had been one of the Hamilton-Brown employees and owner of a large block of the company's stock, filed suit against Brown and the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. for an accounting, alleging that Brown deliberately had attempted to depreciate the value of the stock for the purpose of buying up that which had fallen into the hands of outsiders through the McElroy deal.

The dividends on the stock were suspended very soon after the McElroy stock passed into the hands of Stephens, Gray and others. This caused a depreciation in its value.

Underwent Severe Examination.
Through Burrow's attorneys, Brown was subjected to a severe examination, lasting several days. This was in the summer of 1911. The examination took a wide range. Brown was questioned at great length upon practically every phase of his business and on his relations with his employees.

Although the suit resulted in a victory for Brown, the courts deciding in his favor, the nervous strain to which he was subjected during the ordeal is said to have affected his general health.

FIRST WIFE, WITH SECOND'S CONSENT, NURSES PROF. PECK

She Hopes by Christian Science to Restore Scholar From Mental Breakdown.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. ITHACA, N. Y., May 6.—In the pitiable circumstance of the utter and hopeless mental breakdown of Prof. Harry Thurston Peck, who for more than a quarter of a century has filled the chair of ancient languages at Columbia University, his first wife, Mrs. Cornelia DeWolfe Peck, has assumed complete charge of the invalid, with the consent of his second wife, whose financial resources are meager.

The first wife has departed with him for her home at Sound Beach, Conn. Putting aside all past differences which caused her to divorce him in September, 1908, the first Mrs. Peck has cheerfully assumed the task of nursing the former scholar in his declining days.

No hope is held out by the specialists in mental diseases who examined Prof. Peck while he was at the city hospital that he can ever recover. His first wife is an enthusiast in Christian Science, and is firmly convinced that under her ministrations her former husband's reason can be restored. There is no doubt that even in his dazed condition of mind, he has taken great comfort in her presence. Where nurses and physicians have proved unable to control him—and he has at times had fits of violence—the presence of the first Mrs. Peck has invariably had a calming effect.

Wed Intellectual Woman.
The year following the divorce decree granted to Mrs. Peck against the Columbia professor, he married Miss Elizabeth H. Dubois, a public school teacher of New York City, an instructor in classics at the Morris High School at the time. The marriage caused some comment because Prof. Peck in prolific writings on women had some six years before declared that against the twentieth century "intellectual woman every man should set his face like flint."

The present Mrs. Peck is said to bear no resentment against her first Mrs. Peck because she has stepped in to care for the afflicted scholar. There has been a perfectly amicable arrangement between the two women. Indeed, after Prof. Peck's arrival at the city hospital, the first Mrs. Peck bore the brunt of the expense. The means of the professor's present wife are very limited. He had no private fortune, and when he lost his post at Columbia had to depend almost entirely on his earnings as a magazine writer. While at one time there had been considerable, in his condition of waning health, they dwindled to nothing.

On the other hand, his former wife received a financial statement from Prof. Peck at the time of the divorce and afterward he made diverse contributions to her and on behalf of their daughter, Constance. In addition, his first wife had property of her own.

Both wives were at his bedside for a time, but a day or two ago Mrs. Peck No. 2 left this city for a convalescent retreat near here. Her whereabouts are known only to the hospital authorities.

Religious Philosophy.
The former wife, who hopes to do what the doctors say cannot be done—restore Prof. Peck to his mental powers—is not a professional Christian Science healer. But she has a religious philosophy of her own, which she avers to have found wonderfully efficacious in the past, and she has full belief in her ability to cure her husband, despite the verdict of the doctors, which is that he has "softening of the brain."

Prof. Peck ended his long career at Columbia University following a suit for breach of promise of marriage brought against him by Miss Esther Quinn of Boston. She asked for $50,000 damages. This suit was dismissed, but she brought another for the same sum, and that suit is still pending.

The scholar contested the action of the Columbia trustees bitterly and directed his resentment chiefly against President Butler, whom he sued for $50,000 damages for slander, a suit which, however, has never been tried. He came to Ithaca as a guest of C. H. Gallagher of this city, at whose home he was staying at the time he was stricken.

CADETS PRIMP FOR WILSON
Washington High School Lads Ready for Annual Review. WASHINGTON, May 6.—There was great furnishing of arms and brushing of uniforms today by the High School Cadets for their annual review, during which they will pass under the eyes of Secretary of War Garrison and members of his military staff. President Wilson and members of his family were expected to watch the boy soldiers on parade and several Cabinet officials also were expected to be present.

Eleven companies of cadets will be in line. They will march down Pennsylvania avenue to the music of the Marine Band and go through military evolutions in the ellipse immediately south of the White House.

SAYS EXHAUSTION, NOT STARVATION, KILLED SCOTT MEN

Lieutenant Who Went With Party to Find Explorer Tells How Bodies Were Found.

By Associated Press. WINNIPEG, Manitoba, May 6.—Exhaustion and not starvation was the cause of the death of Capt. Scott and the men who died with him on his way back from the South Pole, according to Lieut. Gran, a member of the supporting party, which found the bodies of the party in the frozen Antarctic. Lieut. Gran stopped off in this city today for a few hours on his way to London.

"The end of the party was peaceful," declared Gran. "When we came up to the tent in which the bodies were, all was silent. The snow had drifted about the tent and something seemed to tell us that the end of them had come. All about us were desolate wastes of snow and ice and a chill came over our hearts."

Bodies Wrapped by Scott.

"Lieut. Wright of Toronto, a Canadian, who commanded our little party, approached the tent first and lifted the flap. We followed, expecting the worst and found in a little group about the mouth of the tent. Capt. Scott lay on his back as if asleep, but outside of his sleeping bag. The bodies of Dr. Wilson and Lieut. Bowers were in their sleeping bags and it was apparent that they had been carefully wrapped up by Capt. Scott, who evidently was the last to die.

"Lieut. Bowers lay on his side, exactly as if he were asleep. Dr. Wilson was sitting in a half-reclining position, his back against the inside of the tent, facing us as we entered. On his features were the traces of a faint smile, and he looked exactly as if he were about to awaken from a sound sleep. I had often seen the same look on his face in the morning as he awakened, as he was of a most cheerful disposition. The look struck us to the heart and we all stood silent in the presence of this death."

Food and Fuel Gone.
"While they did not die of starvation, all their food had given out and, worst of all, their fuel. Then it must be remembered that they were experiencing terrible storms, and a man cannot see in any direction when these storms are blowing."

"When we had obtained all the equipment and the records of Capt. Scott's expedition, we laid the bodies side by side and said a burial service. Then we removed the poles from the tent and covered the bodies over with canvas. On top of this we built a cairn of snow and ice about 15 feet high. We then took two skis bound them together in the form of a cross, erected it on top of the cairn—a last memorial to the dead, and left them where they fell."

April 10, 1907. JOSEPH PULITZER.

THE LAST DITCH.
As time passes, the contempt proceedings against Samuel Gompers and others growing out of the boycott of the Bucks Stove and Range Co. five years ago, take on the appearance of judicial persecution.

In December, 1908, Gompers and his associates were summarily adjudged guilty of contempt and sentenced to imprisonment by the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. The decree was entered by Justice Daniel Terry Wright carried anger and resentment in every line of it. On appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States the judgment was reversed in May, 1911, by an unanimous decision on the ground that if there was cause for action at all it should have been by civil and not criminal proceedings.

Without heeding this rebuke the District Court in June, 1912, again arraigned the defendants and again found them guilty, imposing jail sentences. This verdict is now affirmed by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia which reduces Gompers' penalty to imprisonment for 30 days and imposes fines only in the cases of his associates. Thus while punishments are lightened, they are nevertheless inflicted upon the old theory of criminality which the highest court in the land has disavowed and repudiated.

It is not possible to indorse the acts and words of Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison in this controversy, but the courts of the District of Columbia are even more in error. They are not dealing appropriately with citizens who are in the wrong. They are carrying on a personal feud which has already received a most impressive rebuke. They are judicial last ditchers, who are introducing reprisal into what they call the administration of justice.

Chicago has realized the seat-for-each-passenger ideal which scoffers in St. Louis have declared impossible. It is only a question of time until we attain the same mark of civilization.

ACTION ON GRADE CROSSINGS.
Delegate Gazolet's proposed resolution directing City Counselor Baird to inform the Municipal Assembly whether under the law creating the State Public Service Commission the city has the power to abolish grade crossings is timely.

The Kreismann administration made an excellent beginning of the work of crossing separation by practical agreement with the railroads. Adopting the policy of concession and co-operation urged by the Post-Dispatch, the administration, by assuming the consequential damages for the city, assured the abolition of several important and dangerous grade crossings, including the Wabash-Delmar, Terminal-Union avenue and Tower Grove crossings. There remain several others of equal importance for which plans are practically completed, but ordinances have not been adopted. Among them are the Wabash crossing at Union avenue and at De Baliviere avenue, the Rock Island at Skinner road and the Missouri Pacific at Eleventh and Poplar streets.

It is important to know at once whether the city or the State Public Service Commission must act on the abolition of grade crossings, so that there may be as little delay as possible in accomplishing the object. Every grade crossing in St. Louis that menaces life should be abolished within the term of the present administration. At least the work should be provided for.

It is gratifying to note that the Board of Freeholders will not go into executive session to frame the new charter. The closed door for the transaction of public business is a bad sign for public interests.

"MARKED FOR PROMOTION."
"Chances for promotion in the grade schools are rare," says a public school principal in a letter to the Post-Dispatch giving the principal's point of view in the controversy over the promotion system. He adds:

Only three first assistants are allowed in a first-class school. First assistants rarely change schools and seldom marry. Teachers and principal understand this situation fully. The lists about which I know must have always contained from three to six names, though very few of them have been taken. The teachers had earned the promotion and ought to have had it, but there were no places for them. Sometimes a teacher is carried on a principal's promotion list several years before a chance for promotion comes to her.

This, in large measure, explains the dissatisfaction expressed by teachers in their letters recently published. The remedy suggested by "A Principal" is that more first assistants be allowed in each first-class school. If this is impracticable, at any rate the teachers and all concerned have been enlightened by the discussion. It brings out the fact that, as in all other callings and industries, there is only so much room at the top and that many who may be qualified to take first rank must wait until there is room. Meanwhile, the fact that they are "marked for promotion" should be a cause of satisfaction rather than heart-burnings to them. We cannot all be leaders, but we can all qualify for leadership in so far as our talents will permit.

Now that little Montenegro has yielded, perhaps the big Powers feel ashamed of themselves.

THE MERCHANTS' BRIDGE CASE.

The bill introduced in the United States Senate by Senator James A. Reed, instructing the Attorney-General to institute proceedings for the forfeiture of the Merchants' Bridge for violation of its charter, is the logical conclusion of the decision of the United States Supreme Court declaring the Bridge and Terminal combine an illegal monopoly under the anti-trust act.

The charter of the Merchants bridge especially prohibits agreement or consent to "the consolidation of this bridge company with any other bridge company across the Mississippi River, or to the pooling of the earnings of this bridge company with the earnings of any other bridge company, nor shall any person who is or may be a director of any other bridge be a director or manager of the bridge herein provided for."

The reason given for the granting of the charter "is to secure reasonable rates and tolls for corporations and individuals passing over the same."

The penalty prescribed for the violation of the anti-trust provision of the charter is the immediate forfeiture, without legal proceedings, of the privilege granted and of the bridge property to the United States.

The Merchants' Bridge, with its only competitors, the Eads Bridge and the Wiggins Ferry, has been for years under the control and management of one corporation—the St. Louis Terminal Railway Association—and before the monopoly for the control of the bridges and ferry was organized, the earnings of the two bridges were pooled.

The United States Supreme Court found that the bridges were controlled by one corporation for the purposes of monopoly; it denounced the corporation for monopoly practices and charges.

The bridge combine was guilty of a double violation. It violated the specific act of Congress chartering the bridge for the purpose of defeating the intent of the charter and of violating the Sherman anti-trust law.

No stronger case of law violation in both intent and letter could be made against a corporation. Its own action in the face of the specific penalty makes argument superfluous.

If the anti-monopoly pledges of the Democratic administration mean anything, they mean that a corporation which so flagrantly and defiantly violates the specific prohibition of its Congressional charter in order to violate the anti-monopoly law, must be punished. If the specific penalty provided for the violation of this charter is not enforced acts of Congress are farces.

The new freedom of business which the Wilson administration promises is an empty phrase if such clearly fixed guilt for an illegal attack upon it escapes the specified punishment.

As to Japan, it seems "she doth protest too much."

THE MOUTHS OF GIFT HORSES.

Attacking in Congress Monday the proposed $100,000,000 Rockefeller Foundation, Senator Works of California submitted printed remarks on the general subject of tainted money. The efforts of rapacity to buy favorable consideration from the public through gifts of ill-gotten wealth to worthy purposes command little sympathy from Mr. Works. He thinks a dangerous influence may thereby be introduced into education and philanthropy. Particularly does he object to charity becoming a receiver of stolen goods in accepting endowments of money obtained by methods that are opprobrious because of unfairness or other reason.

On the same day, protests were printed from Alumnus James S. Garrison of Minneapolis, Harvard, '66, against a $250,000 bequest from George Smith, formerly of St. Louis, who accumulated the money in the bookshop business. The gift is to be used in building three Harvard dormitories to be named after Smith himself, who "disgraced" the university while a student there and afterward, according to Mr. Garrison, and after Smith's foster parents, whom he treated with ingratitude and unkindness in life.

The disposition of the American people to look the gift horse in the mouth is increasing rather than diminishing, especially when there is grave doubt as to the way title to the animal was acquired and rumors of an unlocked stable door somewhere are current. One does not have to follow the Works logic to a ridiculous extreme to pronounce it a most hopeful tendency. Reputation is among the fine things it should be beyond the power of money to buy. The ideals of the country will sadly deteriorate when the doctrine is accepted that the laudable ends to which money of Dives may be devoted sanctifies the questionable means by which it has been acquired.

A GOOD MAN WASTED.

"Frenchy" Rooney, the burglar who boasts 1500 successful "jobs" and has just gone to Sing Sing for life as a "habitual," writes thus to the Post-Dispatch:

I have been a professional criminal since I was fourteen years old. It is not much of a business, but, as the old saying goes, every man to his trade, and I guess stealing is mine. I heard a man say once that there were three kinds of crooks—the fellow who was a crook by instinct, the one who stole because he happened to run across the opportunity, and the one that simply made it a business. I guess I belong to the last class. I do not believe I ever felt what you would call tempted to steal anything. I have been a crook by trade, just as another man keeps books or sells neckties or carries a hod. As trades go, it has paid pretty well. I have made about half a million dollars, dressed well and lived without a great deal of trouble. But in the long run, I haven't fooled anybody but myself.

After 30 years Rooney falls in his business and falls hard. If Rooney had started as a cobbler's apprentice he would have owned a shoe factory.

If he had begun as a copy boy he would now be editor and proprietor. If he had started with a pick and shovel he might be a railroad president or Governor of a state. Rooney was ambitious to succeed in his chosen work; he loved it, took a pride in it and never neglected it as men sometimes neglect an honest business. Rooney was smart, apt; as capable and resourceful as persistent and untiring. Rooney was courageous; he brooked no obstacles and was not afraid to take business chances. He believed in his business. Temporary reverses did not shake his faith or purpose. He served several terms and went back at it each time with renewed energy. He stayed with it till the end. The trouble was not with Rooney—the trouble was with his business.

The honest business that moves along with the world is helped by the world. The business that runs counter to the common interest has odds against it too heavy for any one man to carry. Organized burglary legitimated by statute and protected by the police might succeed—indeed it has in some instances. But the single-handed burglar is pitted against the overwhelming forces of the entire social, commercial, civil and governmental system.

Rooney "made" $500,000, all told, in 30 years. Where is that half million and where is Rooney now? Contrast the millions and the ease which honest business has brought to multitudes of mediocre men in that time. On the other hand, failure and repeated failure in honest business need not destroy a good man, but the penalty of utter bankruptcy in crime is final doom.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Are Women "People?"

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Two of the mottoes on the banners of the suffragettes in the big New York parade expressed the whole simple matter:
"Let the People Rule."
"Women Are People."

The principle that "All men are born free and equal" certainly includes women. If not, we must believe that women are not born free and equal. If the principle that there should be no government without the consent of the governed be true, women are surely included or they should not be governed at all. Therefore the only argument that should be required in favor of women voting is the mere fact that they were born. The assertion that the mere right to vote would unsex them is chimerical. If, in the future, we shall have women officeholders they will doubtless be drawn from the class who now devote their lives to teaching, religion, literature, etc., and eschew marriage, as do many men, and competition will doubtless result in a better class of male office-seekers.

The objections to women voting are trivial when we consider the sacred right involved, of which they have always been usually deprived.
JOSEPH O'GRADY.

Conquerors and Skulls.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
As to conquerors, Talmage once said: "Tamerlane asked for 150,000 skulls with which to build a pyramid to his own honor. He got the skulls, and built the pyramid. But if the bones of all who have fallen as a prey to dissipation could be piled up, it would make a vaster pyramid. Who will gird himself for the journey, and try with me to scale this mountain of the dead—going up miles high on human carcasses, to find still other peaks far above, mountain above mountain, white with the bleached bones of drunkards?"
PRO BONO PUBLICO.

The Sunday Closing Bill.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
It is rumored on good authority that money will be used to kill the Sunday closing law bill. In justice to those who would like to see it passed I would ask that your reporters keep their eyes open and watch for it. As I know of no better source whereby same would be given fearless publicity I therefore appeal to you in this matter which means a great deal to a good many of us who must labor on Sunday as those opposing this law are money powerful and we are not.

Getting Together for St. Louis.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I was very much interested in reading in the Sunday Post-Dispatch your article on "Good Points of St. Louis to Tell Visitors." St. Louis should congratulate Mr. Shapleigh on the broadness of his vision and it should congratulate the Business Men's League on having at its head a man of such breadth of views and vision as Mr. Shapleigh. St. Louis itself is to be congratulated upon the fact that at last its newspapers and its citizens are all working whole-heartedly and together in an effort to carry it forward to a greater prosperity and a better destiny. More power to Mr. Shapleigh and his associates in their efforts to democratize the Business Men's League.

I hope the league will soon have a membership of 3000, and if it does I feel certain it will do for St. Louis that work which the city has so long needed. If the Post-Dispatch will lead in the effort to arouse a stronger civic pride in St. Louis the work will be easy.

Close Disorderly Saloons.

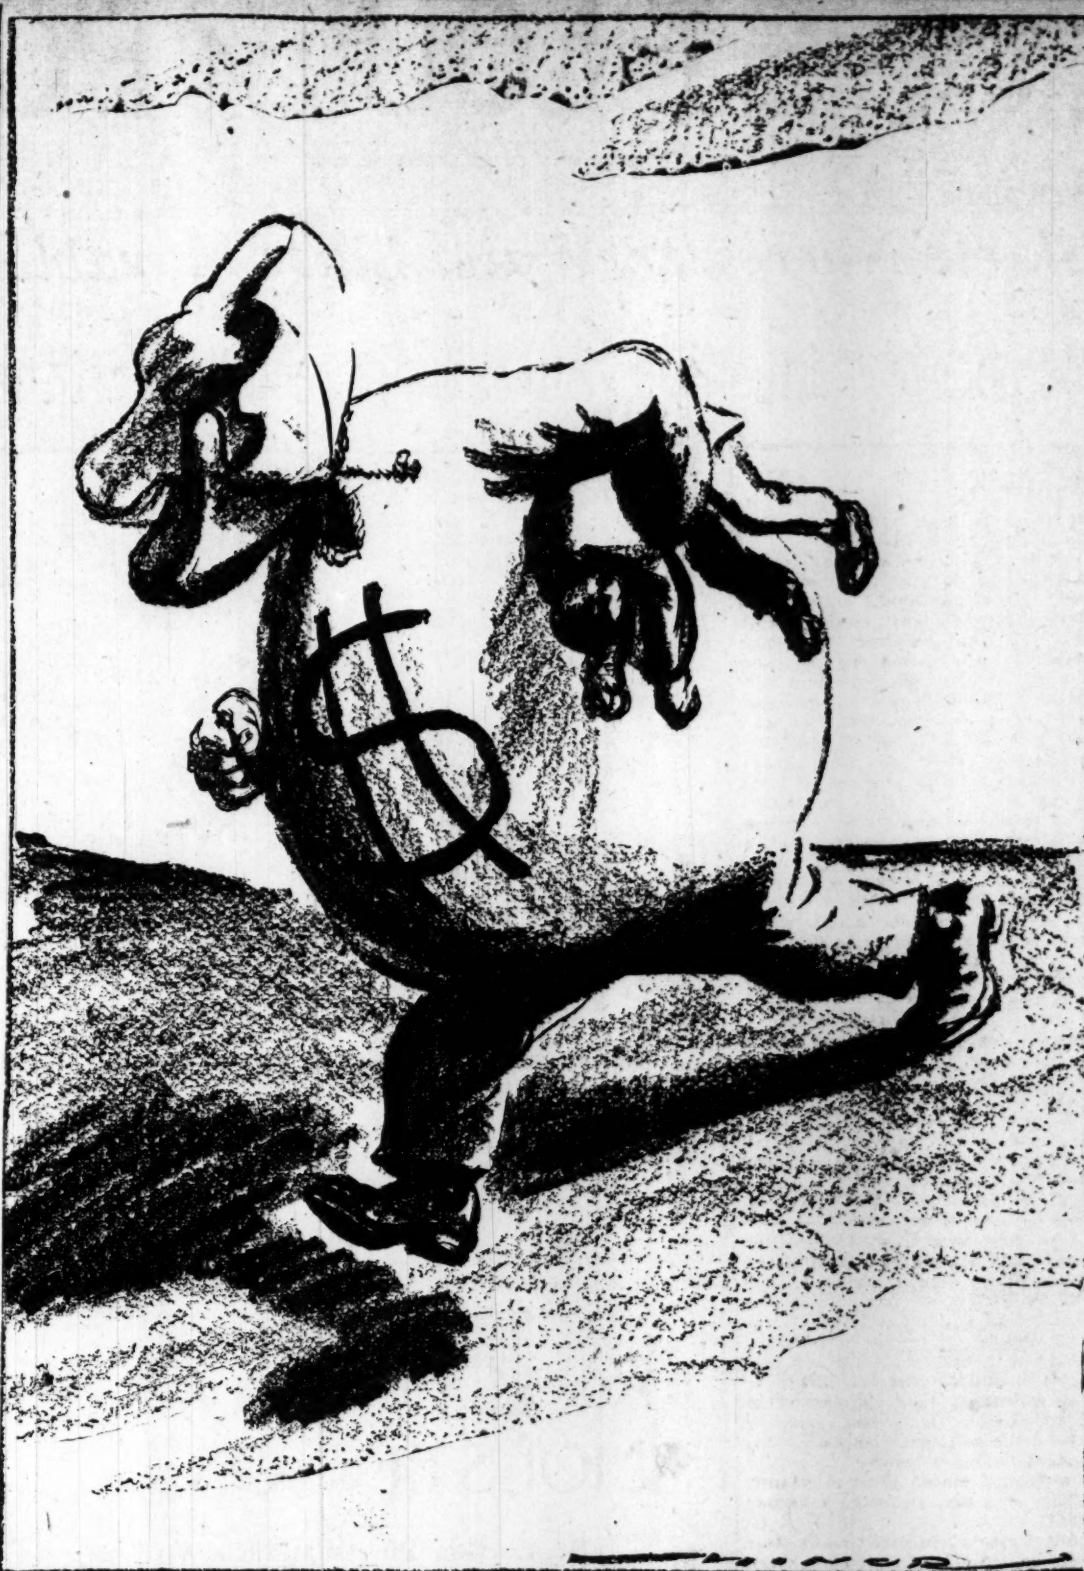

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
In reference to what Capt. Schoppe said to Father Dempsey about a certain saloon: "Don't call it a saloon, call it a bar." Why is Tom Egan's saloon so bad? If the police would do their duty and arrest the hoodlums that hang around there, it would be a godsend to the neighborhood, business people would not have such a dread, houses would rent better, and property would increase in value. It can easily be done, and why is it not done? The reason: Too much heavy, slow timber on the force. Do you think they will ever find the fellow that murdered Nell White? No, not enough push behind.

With Perry on Lake Erie.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
In your magazine sheet in describing Commander Perry's victory on Lake Erie, I think you make one mistake in stating that no one was hurt in the little boat that took Commander Perry and his men from the St. Louis to the Niagara. I would state that Midshipman Edwin Laub, who was my granduncle, had his head shot off by a cannon ball while crossing in the small boat with Commander Perry. Congress voted a sword to my grandfather, John Laub of Washington City, which sword, I think, is now in the family of Gen. Getty, who married a daughter of Dr. Charles Laub, U. S. A. He was then a captain in the United States army.

Tax Payer Asks Accounting.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Will some one please tell us tax payers of St. Louis just what was done with the three and one-half million dollars for which bonds were issued for building the bridge? Have we not a right to know how this enormous sum was spent before we humbly submit to a big tax raise for insurance of more bonds? And where is the guarantee that the bridge will be built this time even if the bonds are issued?

EMBEZZLEMENT.

JUST A MINUTE TO ELLEN EVELYN.

(The likeness of Miss Ellen Evelyn James of Texas will be on all the new paper money.)

BY ROBERTUS LOVE.

S MILE on me, Ellen Evelyn, as often as you will! I vow to love and cherish you and put you in my till—That is, till I have need of you to pay a monthly bill.

No fairer, richer, rarer is any girl that smiles, And none will be more popular in thirty thousand miles, Which will include Hawaii and all our other isles.

Full many men will woo you when your debut you make; Full many hearts, for want of you, will ache and ache and ache; And, losing you, full many a loving heart will break.

The riches of Golconda will be a bagatelle To what your face will stand for, O wealthy Texan belle! The sum of your mazzuma no human tongue can tell.

Who, therefore, would not charm you into his purse's fold? Who would not, then, desire you, for his to have and hold? (That is, your face on paper—for that's as good as gold.)

Alas! so many woosers you're bound to have, I fear, That I may miss your features of wondrous charm and cheer; And yet I swear to court you as long as I am here.

THE BACKSLIDING IN 1912.

From the Philadelphia Telegraph.
Time is "fitting out the hearts of men before the judgment seat," to paraphrase Mrs. Howe's words. The sifting out of some of the radicalism of the day, and the judgment seat is the forum of public opinion.

Some of the "siftings" are included in the following list of popular judgments to date:
Nebraska defeated votes for women.
Oregon rejected direct election of United States Senators.
Kansas declined to authorize the recall of public officers.
Seattle rejected (second time) the single tax.

Arkansas repealed its anti-trust law.
Washington (State) declined even to allow a ballot on recall of judges.
Kansas rejected the initiative and referendum.
Oregon rejected the single tax.
Massachusetts rejected votes for women.
Maine rejected votes for women.

We make no comment on this list of backslidings. It tells its own tale of sober second thought, declining to be rushed. Time will doubtless remedy some of these backslidings, but for the present those who believe in the form-

THE CRISIS IN MONGOLIA.

From the Springfield Republican.
The advent of spring renews the crisis in Mongolia, which has been postponed by the inaccessibility of the region in winter. Late in the fall there was talk of a Chinese expeditionary force to put down the sedition which Russia had fomented, but at that season the invasion would hardly have been feasible even if the army had been ready and the war chest filled. In the heart of Mongolia, and between China and the region earmarked by Russia, lies the formidable Gobi desert, not too easy for an army at any season, and in winter frozen tight and swept by icy blasts. With the spring it will be seen what China will attempt. The dispatch by Russia a fortnight ago of the Twenty-seventh regiment of East Siberian rifles to Urga, the capital of Outer Mongolia, indicates that Russia, having bribed the chiefs to revolt against Chinese rule, is now preparing for the next act in the comedy of annexation as it is played on the highly civilized and modern stage.

Even if the two nations were equal in power, China is at a disadvantage because of the Gobi barrier, and Outer Mongolia may as well be crossed off the list of imperial possessions. Whether Japan is ready for a similar and compensatory move in Manchuria remains to be seen, and it is only a matter of time when England, having taken Tibet from China, will be compelled to annex it herself. The United States is well out of that galley.

GERMANY'S WAR UPON NOISE.

From the Outlook.
The laws governing noises in Germany are severe. For instance, according to the German criminal code, "Whoever, in defiance of law and order, shall cause a disturbance of the peace or perpetuate a public nuisance is punishable by a fine up to 150 marks ($37.50), or confinement." The law, as interpreted by the courts, does not apply when an individual or a small group of persons is disturbed by noise, but only when the public in general is disturbed.

The term "public in general" is, however, construed to apply to a number of families living in the same house, or to pupils assembled in a public school. If they are disturbed by a barking dog or cackling fowl, the owner of the dog or fowl is liable under the law.

The Berlin street ordinances prohibit the playing of music or the crying of wares by hucksters or newspaper vendors in the streets, unless permission is first obtained from the police officials, and prohibit the transportation of all articles, such as sheet iron, chains and other metal objects, liable to make a noise, unless packed so as to be noiseless.

But the new ordinances now coming into force are severer still.

Shaw's Latest.

From the Chicago Record-Herald.
"My point of view," says George Bernard Shaw, "is that people who smoke should not only not be allowed to go to anywhere and should not be allowed to exist." It is evident that Mr. Shaw has never received a fine premium for coupons that he had saved.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

DANZEL.—Some reader may send in for you the formula for soap-making from caustic soda and tallow's earth.

MRS. ECONOMIZER.—Furniture polish: Dissolve 1 part wax in 10 parts alcohol, 1 part vinegar, 1 part. Shake well before using. A real tonic for furniture.

MARIE.—Chocolate syrup: Half pound best chocolate, 3 oz. gelatin, 4 pints water, 7 lbs. sugar. The chocolate and gelatin are dissolved in the water by boiling, then the sugar is added and stirred until dissolved.

C.—To bleach unbleached muslin: Get a 5-cent box of chloride of lime and dissolve for all, then have a large tub of water in which the lime is thoroughly dissolved. Put five or six large sheets in at one time, and you stir them up you will find them getting white inside of an hour. Then they should be put into two or three tubs of clear rinsing water and hung out to dry.

CARANTOL.—We don't know "the powder that will hold an egg fresh." The Chinese preserve their eggs indefinitely by drying them. The yolks and whites being first separated, and then each reduced to powder by evaporation. In India butter is treated in much the same way, so that it never becomes stale and may be kept for 100 years. The butter is boiled till all the water and curds are got rid of, and nothing remains but the fat. When the oil cools into a solid it is granulated, and in this form will remain fresh indefinitely. This is what they call ghee, and ghee is nothing more or less than dried butter.

DOMKE.—Vaseline.—Take 1 lb. best beeswax, cut it up into very small pieces and let it thoroughly dissolve in 5 parts turpentine. Stirring occasionally, if necessary. The mixture should be only a trifle thicker than the clean turpentine. Apply it with clean woolen rag to surface of floor, which should be perfectly clean and smooth. This is the difficult part of the work, for if you put on either too much or too little a good polish will be impossible. The right amount varies, less being required for hard, close-grained wood and more if the wood is soft and open-grained. After applying the mixture rub the floor thoroughly with clean, woolen cloth (with grain of wood) or, what is better, have it polished with the heavy dry-rubbing brush used for this purpose. They can be bought at housefurnishings stores.

LAW POINTS.
J. M.—See Free Legal Aid Bureau, Board of Education Building, Ninth and Locust.

J. A. C.—You cannot compel the company to sell you trading stamps, as such are private and not public service corporations.

E. T. T.—If you desire to join, holding free shares you can; if you contemplate joining to borrow on Illinois real estate, nothing doing.

LEX.—If juror becomes insane during a criminal trial he certainly could be tried again; indeed, he isn't tried at all until a verdict is reached in his case.

J. L. J.—If, as you state, the title is in husband and wife, no act of either is necessary to transfer the title to the survivor; at the death of one, the other immediately owns the property to the exclusion of children and every other person. No administration is necessary, nor could a Public Administrator compel probate as to such property, for after the death of a husband or wife there is nothing to probate and stands in name of survivor the same as though it were his own.

WANT TO KNOW.—Although by a decision of the Supreme Court in 1901 it was held that a married woman without a jointer of her husband could mortgage her real estate, the risk in view of other decisions for and against, and the circumstances of each particular case, it is certain that the question of the married woman's act is unsettled in this State for anyone to take a chance, not being assured what the next court may do. There is but one way, and that is, by all means insist upon signature of the husband also or refuse to make a loan. The note would be valid, although the deed of trust may be set aside; in that event they would be unsecured.

H. O. T.—It is not difficult, if an invention possesses actual merit, to induce some money maker to take an interest in the patent, although it is usually easiest if possible to finance the patenting stage oneself. It must be remembered that in order to secure financial assistance it will probably be necessary to prove first that your invention is capable of patenting. The first thing to do in such a case is to consult a reliable patent attorney and allow him the right to make a full examination of the nature of the invention. It is sense of being capable of patent rights. Patents are not granted for the mere use of an old material, or for the substitution of one material for another, unless a marked difference in result is effected. Neither can a person secure a patent for the new use of an old material, unless an inventor has a monopoly under his patent, for any use to which it can be applied. It is not permitted, either, for a person to make an improvement on a patent and use the article to make an improvement applied without the consent of the owner of the patent—Opportunity.

THE PRINCE IN THE FAIRY TALE

A STORY of art student life in Paris wherein a girl who tries to be a painter meets the man of her dreams.

By LEONARD MERRICK

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTER.
Rosalie goes to Paris with a girl friend to study art. They are poor and must live in a rooming house in a dingy house in a dilapidated court. Mr. Martin, an American student, is among the lodgers in the house. He carries pails of water up the 18 steps from the fauces in the yard for the young ladies. He seems very poor.

PART II.

THOUGH I did not meet Mr. Martin at the pump any more I very often chanced to meet him on my way home from the art school. Each time I liked him better, and of course I knew I wasn't doing all the liking myself. He never said anything, but a girl can always tell, can't she? When I heard of the shifts that some of the young men in the house were put to for a meal and thought that his straits must be as cruel as any of them I could have cried. There were moments when food almost choked me as I pictured him sitting half-starved in his room, his chin sunk on his breast—never dependent in any way—but I was sure his buoyancy was just put on to hide his sufferings.

When I had been living in the court for about two months the sight of his coat and the idea of his privations proved too bad to be borne. We had become such comrades by then—for the walk from the school took a long time, especially if one didn't walk very fast—that I thought I would let me speak like a sister to him.

"Mr. Martin," I murmured one day as we went home "I want you to do me a great favor, please."
"Why certainly," he said. "Right now! What is it?"
"Well, I said, 'We are both students and we are very good friends, and it's all nonsense for you to reply that because I'm a girl you can't regard me as a real chum. And when I had stammered that I turned red and gazed at the tip of my shoes."

"But I haven't replied anything of the sort," he said with a laugh. "I'm waiting to hear what you want me to do."
"You won't be offended?" I asked.
"I'm sure I could never be offended with you," he said earnestly.

"Or hurt?" I added.
"I'm sure you would never hurt me."
"Well then, I want you to let me lend you a little money till things are better. Will you?"

His eyes widened at me then he blushed. He did, he blushed; I saw the color spread right up to his temples. I hated myself, though I had done my best to say it all delicately.

"I am very, very grateful to you," said Mr. Martin. "Believe me, I'm not in need of money. But you're a chum indeed."

"Oh, you're too proud to confess," I gulped—and there was a lump that I couldn't swallow in my throat. We were crossing one of the bridges and I stopped and looked at the sun sinking while I tried to blink my tears back. He stood there by me and was quiet for a minute. When he spoke I hardly recognized his voice, it trembled so much.

"Will you tell me something?" he whispered.
"Why did you say this to me?"
"Because I know you are poor, and I'm poor and can understand. But I could spare a small sum easily and I thought you'd be great enough to let me help you."

"You have helped me," he answered; "helped me to ask you a question that I hadn't the pluck to put. * * * Dear little chum do you care for me?"
"Yes," I told him.

"Enough to wait till a pauper can afford to marry you?"
"Yes," I told him.

"I love you," said Mr. Martin, "with all my heart!"
And the boats were sailing down the river and a crowd was on the bridge, but I couldn't see them. In all Paris there was no one but ourselves. We were alone in the sunset—he and I!

I knew what Miss Niblett would say, and she said it—"Tut!" She warned me that I was doing a rash, an impudent thing. And after she had reproached herself for bringing me to France and prophesied a hopeless waiting and the workhouse for me by turns, she hugged me splendidly and wished me happiness. There you have Miss Niblett!

Then my fiancé was invited up to supper and we were merry. I was annoyed to see that while I was making the salad she had examined him about his prospects. Of course I did see it when I came back, by his embarrassed look and Miss Niblett's air of dissatisfaction. Still I repeat that we were merry that evening, although I couldn't help regretting that I had so often spoken to her of my fear that he didn't get enough to eat. It wasn't quite nice, while we sat to supper, to think she was reflecting that a substantial meal was by way of being a novelty to my poor little Miss Niblett! Though she had, at the same time, the supper so that she might have a chance to peep behind the door behind her! That was the first time she kissed me. After all that has happened since, the scene remains clear and living to me—the little lamp-lit room, half study, half parlor, the scent of the magnolia in the open window and the Promised Land lay beyond. When I am old and gray it will be living to me still.

And by and by we all went out. "I have pennies to spend," pleaded my lover, "let's be lavish! Could I be wise on such a night? Away we sped from Montparnasse into the Paris where the cabs darted and the cafes glittered; and we had syrups and fizzy waters under the trees in the starlight and made believe that we were rich. I thought Miss Niblett must have been in love herself once upon a time, she was so tactful. It was a long ramble that we took. Like children we joked outside a jeweler's window, pretending to choose the costliest engagement rings; like vagrants we loitered by a great house where a reception was being held. Yes, we stood there on the pavement and watched the grand people arriving; and for the first time for hours I remembered we were poor.

"Why aren't we going to a party? How lovely it would be!"
"Are you keen on parties? My lover asked. Perhaps I could take you to one this week, shall I try?"
"A party like that?" I laughed. "Yes, please!"

"Ah, well," he replied, "I can't guarantee that it will be quite like that. Still I guess it will be rather fun. Will Miss Niblett go, too?"
"I?" she exclaimed. "Don't talk nonsense!"

"I wonder," he said, which is the best place in this city to hire a suit of dress clothes for the evening. My social gayeties have given me no cause to find out."

"That was all. We turned homeward. I thought with Niblett that he had been talking nonsense. Imagine how surprised I was to hear him revive the subject after a day or two.

"Well, it's all right," he said. "I've managed it. We're invited."
"Invited?" I echoed. "Invited where?"
"Why 'to the festivity tomorrow night'."

"But, I cried, 'You didn't really mean it, did you? You didn't suppose I'd go? The people are strangers to me.'"
"Oh, that's nothing," he answered. "In Society, they often go to strangers' parties. It's rather chic."

"Well, we aren't in Society," I reminded him. "I'm not chic. I can't go junketing with a lot of students I've never seen before."

"You'll never be a bohemian, Rosalie," he said. "You don't seem to catch on to the tone of the Quarter at all. Now, do come! If you're a good girl you shall be rewarded. You see I have my clothes ready and it would disappoint me some not to get a chance to show 'em off."

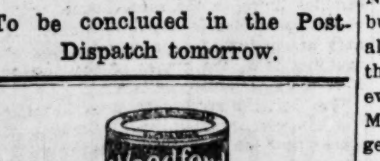

He made such a point of it that I promised. But I wasn't pleased. Besides being reluctant to intrude, I was annoyed at the thought of having put him to expense; also the idea of his going to a party in a hired suit was distasteful to me. I went to my school as cross as two sticks.

Early the next morning he ran upstairs in a great hurry to borrow our newspaper. I wondered why he wanted it, for he always read Le Temps and we took the Daily Messenger, one of the English papers that were published in Paris. However, we were busy and let him have it, though we hadn't looked at it ourselves yet. We were busy examining the white silk frock that I meant to wear. I was for refreshing it with some new tulle and Miss Niblett kept saying that it would be folly to spend the money. The argument lasted such a long time that it didn't go to school at all that day.

And then behind an afternoon of amusement: As I was looking the kettle there came a rap at the door and whom should I admit but a stylish young woman with a note and a large box! The note consisted of four words—"Fills for the Fair!" and the box contained a dress! I should need a page to do it justice; such a dress as the fairy godmother might have created when she changed a pumpkin to a chariot.

"What does it mean?" I gasped.
"Is that from him?" stammered Miss Niblett.
"Oh, don't you know it's from him?" I cried hotly. "Now I see why you wouldn't let me buy the tulle! But how can he have paid for it and how could you encourage him?"

To be concluded in the Post-Dispatch tomorrow.

WHAT THE MOON COULD TELL

Done for the Post-Dispatch By ELEANOR SCHÖRER

Old kind-eyed Moon could tell a lot of pretty quaint stories. And one would be about two kiddies. He sees them kiss "good night" with big shiny tears in their eyes when nurse calls "Bedtime!" Bedtime, with the skies all blue! How the kiddies would like to play awhile longer! Pity is indeed akin to love and sometimes the moon sees a romance grow out of that little feeling of pity. But that's another story.

LOVE LETTERS OF FAMOUS PERSONS

No. 4. Gen. Pickett and His Wife.

GEN. PICKETT, a famous soldier of the Civil War, wrote the following letter just 50 years ago to the lady who afterward became his wife. Although her heart responded to the tender appeal in this letter, the General's sweetheart did not come to him at once. On account of the rigid social customs that prevailed in the South she could not face the prospect of leaving home and being married by the wayside in this desultory fashion. Some six months later, however, soon after the great battle of Gettysburg, where Pickett and his men covered themselves with glory, she became his wife. The marriage was a social event of much importance in the South, President Davis and his Cabinet and many of Lee's generals attending. Mrs. Pickett is now living in Washington where she has been a leader in the Southern coterie for many years. Her "Soldier" died way back in the '70s but, although she has been known from girlhood as one of the most beautiful women in the South, she has never married again.

"THIS morning I awakened from a beautiful dream, and while its glory still overshadows the waking and fills my soul with radiance I write to make an earnest request—entreat, praying, that you will grant it. You know, my darling, we have no prophets in these days to tell us 'how near or how far' is the end of this awful struggle. If the battle is not to the strong then we may win; but when all our ports are closed and the world is against us, when for us a man killed is a man lost, while Grant may have 25 of every nation to replace one of his, it seems that the battle is to the strong. So often already has hope been dashed to the winds.

"Why, dear, only a little while since, the Army of the Potomac recrossed the Rappahannock, defeated, broken in spirit, the men deserting, the subordinate officers so severe in their criticism of their superiors that the great Commander-in-Chief of the Army, Mr. Lincoln, felt it incumbent upon him to write a severe letter of censure and rebuke. Note the change and hear their bugle-call of hope. Hooker, who is alleged to have 'the finest army on the planet,' is reported to be on the eve of moving against Richmond. My division and that of Hood, together with the artillery of Dearing and Henry, have been ordered to a point near Petersburg to meet this possible movement.

"Now, my darling, may angels guide my pen and help me to write—help me to voice this longing desire of my heart and intercede for me with you for a speedy fulfillment of your promise to be my wife. As you know, it is imperative that I should remain at my post and absolutely impossible for me to come for you. So you will have to come to me. Will you, dear? Will you come? Can't your beautiful eyes see beyond the mist of my eagerness and anxiety that in the bewildering of my worship—worshiping, as I do, one so divinely right, and feel-me, you would understand. Think, my dear little one, of the uncertainty and dangers of even a day of separation, and don't let the time come when either of us will look back and say, 'It might have been.'

"If I am spared, my dear, all my life shall be devoted to making you happy, to keeping all that would hurt you far from you, to making all that is glad come near to you. Heaven will help me to be ever helpful to you and will bless me to bless you. If you knew how every hour I kneel at your altar, if you could hear the prayers I offer to you and to our Heavenly Father for you, if you knew the incessant thought and longing and desire to make you blessed, you would know how much your answer will mean to me and how, while I plead, I am held back by a reverence and a sensitive adoration, for you. For, my Sally, you are my goddess and I am only Your devoted SOLDIER."

"WHY," boasted the seedy-looking actor, "I played Hamlet once."

"Is that so?" queried the doubting theatrical manager. "Did you have a long run?"

A LESSON IN ETIQUETTE

A Domestic Dialogue

Written for the Post-Dispatch BY ALMA WOODWARD.

Scene—The Grays' dining room.
Time—7 p. m.
(Mr. G., with a glass of wine, and dejected of pose, at table is skidding the celery dish toward Mrs. G., who, with fire in her eye, is just waiting for some excuse to "pick" on him.)

MRS. G. (exploding at last): I declare! Your table manners are getting worse and worse day by day!

MR. G. (meekly): Now, you leave me alone!

MRS. G. (firmly): I will not leave you alone! If I let you alone where would you be? You haven't got the first instinct of etiquette about you. People'd think you were brought up in a stable.

MR. G. (woefully): I wish I was!

MRS. G. (coldly): I'm not at all surprised to hear you express that sentiment—not at all. Why do you suppose I refuse all these invitations we get to small dinners? Because I don't want people to see you eat.

MR. G. (in sullen defense): I eat differently when I'm not so tired. I can't be all polite and unnatural when I'm so tired—that's all.

MRS. G. (with scornful emphasis): Well, I wouldn't let anyone hear me say that if I were you. Politeness isn't a matter of eight hours' sleep every night.

MR. G. (waking up): Well, by goah, me for the eight hours, and the politeness can go to—

MRS. G. (suddenly): Oh, my! I almost forgot. That banquet—the Silicia Salesmen's banquet is going to be tomorrow night. And Mr. Banks, the man who's thinking of taking you on at a week more'n you're getting, is going to be there.

MR. G. (sourly): Yeh, he's thinking all right!

MRS. G. (angrily): Doesn't the man have to think when he makes an addition to his staff? What's the matter with you? (Solemnly): And he's going to be there tomorrow night!

MR. G. (impatiently): Well, what of it?

MRS. G. (shrilly): What of it? Do you suppose he'd take you if he was to see you eat?

MR. G. (sullenly): Why not? What's eating got to do with selling cheese-cloth? If my sales amounted to $50,000 a year he wouldn't care if I took my spaghetti through a bean shooter or had a soup shampoo.

MRS. G. (glaring at him): Not! But he doesn't know anything about your selling ability. He's going to judge by no reason for delaying one's happiness.

In Love
K. C. writes: "I enjoy the company of a young lady immensely, and I have a great longing to see her when I sugar on your bread and butter he won't take you on, that's all!"

MR. G. (dejectedly): Well, he ain't goin' to, anyway, so what's the difference?

MRS. G. (oblivious of his rebellion): Now listen, Henry! Listen to me: I'm not going to teach you anything ultra and up to date in table manners, because conservative table etiquette is always in form. And, besides, you couldn't manage anything fancy. First thing—don't be too anxious to take your seat. Whenever you see anything to eat anyone'd think you were playing "Going to Jerusalem" the way you dive for your chair! You want to pretend that it doesn't matter to you if you NEVER get anything to eat.

MR. G. (plaintively): But it does! And I like to see people eat at my table.

MRS. G. (pitilessly): Yes, I know, Henry. But listen: It's different at a banquet. People don't go there to eat. Most of the men bought their dress suits when they were married, and they've gained 15 or 20 pounds since then. So they couldn't eat much anyway. (Sudden bright idea): I'll tell you what'll do. I'll have a fine cold pig's knuckle in jelly and a couple of bottles of beer and some rye bread in the ice box for you to eat when you get home. And all through the banquet you must keep thinking of that.

And that'll keep you from making a pig of yourself eating. See?

MR. G. (warily): Yeh. An' then first thing you know the delicatessen store won't have any more pig's knuckles left. Not on your life! There'll only be prunes, or—

MRS. G. (continuing the instruction): And, Henry, don't make a hole in your napkin and hook it on to your diamond stud to keep it up. And don't eat any fish, because the bones always get stuck in your tonsils, and don't—

MR. G. (suddenly stemming the tide with a commanding hand): Say, who was the greatest man the world ever knew? Napoleon! Napoleon H. Bonaparte! And I read in a history once that Napoleon ate like a pig. Well, if I can't be like Nap in anything else I've sure got him blocked at the feet though. An' if any of those dubs got anything to say tomorrow night there's history to back me up! Deal I never had much use for the frog eaters before, but, say, here's to the par-fours-ers and the Marseillais! Tomorrow night will see the spirit of Nap reincarnated in yours truly. I guess that's not some hot argument, eh, old lady? Me and Nap!

Love and Courtesy

Written for the Post-Dispatch By BETTY VIBBERT.

Much Love and Little Money.

EVERY young man and a young woman with a great deal of love and a very little money, should they marry or should they not? It seems to me that the personal question is the answer to that question. What sort are the young people? Are their tastes simple and their energy and ingenuity considerable? Are they willing to count their pennies and do they really know how to spend those pennies wisely? Do they really love each other more than they love ease and merriment and independence?

A cynical lady once remarked: "Love in a cottage is all very well, but wait till the chimney begins to smoke!" But the loving husband who lives in a cottage should know how to fix a smoking chimney, just as his wife should know how to manage a rickety stove.

Of course, no one should marry on nothing a year, but poverty, per se, is no reason for delaying one's happiness.

In Love
K. C. writes: "I enjoy the company of a young lady immensely, and I have a great longing to see her when I have been away from her for some time. Do you think that I am in love with her?"

It sounds like it.

Dance Mad.

W. C. writes: "My fiancée insists on going to a dance every night and dancing all the time with one man. Do you think this is proper conduct?"

No, I don't. But why don't you take her to some dances?

You Are Not in Love.

J. C. writes: "I am 18 and in love with a girl a year younger than myself. Will you please give me some advice?"

Stop playing at emotions which you are not old enough really to feel.

The absent lover.

G. has been paying me attention for some time. He has told me of his love and I love him. He is about to go away on a business trip for six months. Would it be proper for me to go out with other young men in his absence?"

I should hardly think you'd care to do so if you really love the first man.

ONCE WAITRESS IN ST. LOUIS NOW POET AND EDITOR

"Songs of the Dawn" by Mrs. Teresa Boylan Brayton Tell of Longing for Ireland.

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall.
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 6.—This is the story of a remarkable young woman, Mrs. Teresa Boylan, whom the "Old Country" knows and loves as Teresa Boylan. As Miss Boylan came to this country from Ireland in her teens, alone and practically penniless. In 10 years, beginning with the hardest and most humble manual labor, she has worked herself up to an editorial position at a satisfactory salary on the Irish World, and she is the author of a just-published book of Irish verse, "Songs of the Dawn."

There is much of both patriotism and charm in this little volume, which is inscribed as follows: "Unto my own, the Irish, I send with smiles and tears."

This little book of melodies, caught from the flying years; With all the love within me, and with all the best I know, I'd call them back o'er many track to lands of long ago."

And the titles of the poems, "Bonfire Night in Ireland," "The Connaughtman's Rambles," "The Old Boreen," "A Sad From Galway," are themselves enough to warm the cockles of the Celtic heart and to inspire a genuine interest in the personality of the writer.

"How in the world did you come to leave your own country when you are so fond of it?" I asked Mrs. Brayton. She shook her head mutely and the familiar sadness of the Irish exile clouded her gray eyes.

Such Stories of America. "I was so young," she explained. "And there were family troubles. My father, who was everything in the world to me, and who taught me all I know, died. My sister was a school teacher and I lived with her, but then she decided to get married. And I heard such stories of America and the chances there that I thought I'd go and see. I did not know the knowledge that would be tugging at my heart."

"I went first to St. Louis, where I had some cousins. But I found things so different from what they were in Ireland. Although my relatives were comfortable off, they gave me no help and assured me that I must begin to take care of myself, even if I had to begin at the bottom."

"I was too proud to ask favors and so I made up my mind to get the first respectable job in sight. I went to work in a restaurant which is one of a chain owned by the same man. I worked hard and long and earned just enough to keep food and body together."

"But after about a year I had a chance to go to Chicago and work in an office for a German, an old man who could talk English, but who could not write it. I did a great deal of writing for him, and learned to use the typewriter after a fashion. He paid me $5 a week and bought my luncheon. In Chicago I met my husband, an American, and became Teresa Brayton. He was a stenographer and typist for a big firm. After we were married he had the offer of a position in Denver and accepted it, as he had always wanted to go west. But he died a year and a half after I married him and left me alone in Denver with hardly any money. I had just a little more than enough to pay my way to New York, where I thought my chances for getting work would be better than in the west."

Tricks Luck in New York. "I knew no one in this city and arrived with only a few dollars in my pocketbook. Luckily I met almost at once a woman who had just been burned out over in New Jersey and wanted to set up a home in New York. Immediately, I went with her and did all sorts of work about the house, helping her in any way she wished. In the meantime I tried to get a bit acquainted with the city and tried to learn my way about the city."

"I came here seven years ago, and it would be easier to pick out the work I haven't put my hand to in that time than to try to enumerate the different positions I've filled. For a long time I took care of the rooming and boarding house. They gave me my meals and $14 a month, but I was obliged to find my own room. Not that I wasn't glad to do so. I wanted to get away from my brooms and dust pans for a little while during the 24 hours."

"However, I considered that I had a good job, because my food was sure and my salary was sure. At another time I worked as a clerk in a laundry and made $1 a week. Then I used to go uptown and read to an old lady. Also I worked in a big Broadway department store selling hats. I earned $6 a week there, and it did seem to me that they gave me all the hats that nobody would possibly want to buy."

It was doubtful of this period that Mrs. Brayton wrote: "My feet are here on Broadway this blessed sweet morn. But, oh, the ache that's in them for the road where I was born."

And later, in the same poem, she says: "When I was young and innocent my mind was ill at ease Through thrumming of America and good beyond the seas. Och, sorrow take their money, but 'tis hard to get that same— And what's the whole world to a man when no one speaks his name?"

"All this time you were longing to write, were you not?" I asked. "I was, indeed," replied Mrs. Brayton. "But I had neither place nor time, except for a few little things that were published in the Irish World and other Catholic and Irish papers. While I was selling hats for $6 a week, I rented an apartment uptown and then sublet every room except one, which I kept for myself. Nights and mornings I had to take care for the rooms I sublet."

"I should think you would have broken down," I observed, for Mrs. Brayton is decidedly slender and frail and has almost no color in her thoughtful, sensitive face.

"I did break down once, completely," she admitted, "and I was often ill and nearly always tired. But people have always been so kind to me, and now I have this position which I like so much and my book has had its real success. I'm going to have an apartment all to myself just as soon as I can find one that suits me, though I still hope, some day, to live again in Ireland."

"But America is a wonderful, free place, and the people here have kind hearts, once one knows them. I believe that any good girl willing to work can get on. She must be ready to do anything that comes to hand, and then hold on tight and wait for her chance. It's sure to come some time, in one way or another. And there's bound to be a time of struggle in everyone's life."

And Mrs. Brayton is a fine practical proof of her optimistic theories.

MISSED GAME TO WED

After Sunday afternoon's game the members of the Alta Sila baseball team at East St. Louis called at the home of their manager, Philip Ripplinger of 2600 Bond Avenue, to ascertain why he had not attended the game. As the bell was rung, Ripplinger, accompanied by a young woman, opened the door. Ripplinger introduced the woman as his wife, formerly Miss Mamie Schmit of 3033 South Broadway, St. Louis.

Ripplinger said he and his bride were the last couple married by former Justice of the Peace J. C. Brady, and it was necessary for him to miss the game to be married.

Bishops to Come to St. Louis. CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 6.—After a five days' session the International Board of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church closed its meeting, choosing St. Louis for the next meeting, Oct. 22.

QUICKLY STOPS THE WORST BACKACHE

Makes Kidney Troubles, Bladder Disorders, and Rheumatic Pains Vanish.

If you suffer with backaching kidney trouble, have disagreeable bladder and kindred disorders, or are tormented with rheumatism, sciatica, joint and back-trenching pains, the new discovery, Croxone, will quickly and surely relieve all such troubles.

Croxone is the most wonderful remedy yet devised for ridging the system of uric acid and driving out all the poisons, impurities which cause such troubles. It is entirely different from all other remedies. It acts on the principle of cleaning out the poisons and removing the cause.

It soaks right in through the walls, membranes and linings, like water in a sponge, neutralizes, dissolves and makes the kidneys sift out and filter away all the uric acid and poisons from the blood, and leaves the kidneys and organs clean, strong, healthy and well.

It matters not how long you have suffered, how old you are or what you have used, the very principle of Croxone is such that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work the minute you take it and relieves you the first time you use it.

If you suffer with pains in your back and sides, or have any signs of kidney, bladder trouble or rheumatism, such as puffing swellings under the eyes or in the feet and ankles, if you are nervous, tired and run down, or bothered with similar disorders, Croxone will quickly relieve you of your misery. An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if it fails in a single case. ADVERTISEMENT.

TAFT SAYS IN A LECTURE "LET US TRY FREE TRADE"

By Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 6.—"If we are to have free trade, let's have it," said former President Taft, Kent professor of law at Yale, in the second of his lectures on questions of modern government, at the University. "Let the party that favors it vote for it. Let's try it."

His statement yesterday was incidental to a discussion of the necessity of the political party to efficient legislation.

"The three objects of the new school of political thinkers who style themselves Progressives," said Prof. Taft, "are to prevent corruption of Government by corporate interests, to create an equality of opportunity for all men, and to equalize property holdings to some extent."

"Persons who do not concur with this school in the exact method of arriving at the true purpose of popular government which is to make for the happiness of all the people, are called reactionaries. Those of us who fall in this category must be content, but we must never cease fighting."

Prof. Taft expressed the belief that the sentiment for radical changes in the method of government would recede, and that the result would be a happy medium between the old method and the new.

Emphasizing the necessity for political parties, the former President said: "Popular government is impossible without parties. A group of men who are willing to sacrifice minor details for the sake of a consistent course for the accomplishment of a few main things is necessary for efficacy in government."

It was in this connection he made the reference to free trade.

FREE WOOL WILL RAISE BEEF PRICE, LOBBYIST ARGUES

Secretary of Growers' Association Says Number of Sheep Raised Will Be Cut.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The wool lobby in Washington, which is in charge of Dr. W. S. McClure of Salt Lake City, secretary of the National Wool Growers' Association, has about given up the fight for a retention of the duty on wool. The action of the House in adopting the recommendation of Chairman Underwood and the members of the Ways and Means Committee, that wool should go on the free list, was a staggering blow to the lobby, and it is not hopeful of any better treatment of the Senate. In his fight before Congress Dr. McClure has been assisted by Frederick Ellsworth of Colorado, president of the State Wool Growers' Association, and by S. M. Cleaver of Delaware. All three have been in Washington since the beginning of the tariff discussion.

In arguing for a duty on wool as the representative of the sheep raisers of the country, Dr. McClure went before the Ways and Means Committee and said the sheep raisers were willing that the duty on wool should be reduced, but that, in no circumstances could their industry survive if wool was placed on the free list.

"We were willing that the duty should be fixed as low as 50 per cent ad valorem instead of the present rate of 80 per cent," said McClure. "With this reduction the raisers of sheep in this country would be protected and their industry would not be crushed."

He argued that the price of clothes will not be reduced as a result of putting wool on the free list.

"It takes at least nine pounds of wool to make a suit of clothes," he argued. "On an all-wool suit the wool grower of this country receives on an average of $1.75 for his product which goes into the manufacture of the cloth. This is the price he now receives with the tariff as high as it is on the importations of wool. Free wool may perhaps prove of benefit to the manufacturers, the jobber and the retailer, but it cannot possibly prove of any benefit to the ultimate consumer. It will not reduce the price of a suit of clothes a single penny."

Dr. McClure likewise predicts that the price of beef in this country will go up as a result of free wool. Here is the way he figures:

"There are 610,000 men engaged in the sheep-growing business in this country. Over $300,000,000 is invested in this industry. Last year there were 17,000,000 sheep slaughtered, which represented 800,000,000 pounds of dressed mutton. More mutton was sold in this country last year than in any other on the face of the globe, with the exception of Great Britain. The price of beef, although high, has been held down by the supply of mutton. Free wool means a reduction of at least 50 per cent in the number of sheep raised on the ranches of the country."

MR. DWIGHT F. DAVIS gave a small tea Monday afternoon at her residence, 16 Portland place, in honor of her guest, Miss Ruth Greenough of Boston, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Stribling entertained at dinner Monday evening at the Country Club in honor of Lady Peek, whose son, Sir Wilfred Peek, and Mrs. Stribling's daughter, Miss Edwina Thornburgh, will be married Wednesday.

Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. George P. Warner, Mrs. Cornell, Miss Plimpton, Mrs. H. E. Manchester and her daughter, Miss Grace Manchester, all of Buffalo, N. Y.; and relatives of Mrs. William C. Stribling, who arrived Monday for the wedding. They are stopping at the Buckingham Hotel. Mrs. William McMillan gave a dinner at the Country Club at the same time for Miss Thornburgh's bridal party.

Miss Mary Ann Tucker, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Benjamin Lawrence Van Cleave, and Mr. Van Cleave of 520 Waterman avenue, and Graham Wright of Rome, Ga., were married Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church.

The Rev. James W. Lee, pastor of the church, officiated.

After the ceremony there was a family dinner at Mrs. Van Cleave's residence.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Betty Alken Tucker of Kansas City, who came on with her daughter for the wedding.

The engagement had been known for some time and the nuptials were expected to take place in the fall, but Mr. Wright and Miss Tucker suddenly changed their plans.

Members of their families were notified, and except the wedding was a complete surprise.

The bride's cousin, David Carlisle, gave her in marriage.

The guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crut of Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. David Carlisle, Mr. and Mrs. Bert H. Lane, Mr. and Mrs. George G. Gambrell, and Nedra Patton of Rome, Ga.

Mr. Wright is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Seaborn Wright of Rome, Ga., where he will take his bride to live. Mrs. Crut is also sister of Mrs. Van Cleave and will remain here for a visit.

take place at 7 o'clock at the home of the bride, 1028 Cherokee street, Rabbi Leon Harrison officiating. Only the immediate families will be present. Dr. Ostfeld and his bride will go on a short honeymoon trip.

Mrs. C. J. McClung of Knoxville, Tenn., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Arthur C. Hillmar of 304 Skinner road. Mrs. McClung was Miss Reba Prosser, whose marriage last autumn was one of the interesting nuptial affairs.

I Can Make Your Fat Vanish by the Gallon!

I CONQUERED OBESITY PAST MIDDLE-AGE

I Ate Everything I Liked—Went Through No Exercise—Wore No Special Clothing—Took No Weakening Baths!

I Explain My Simple, Speedy Home Treatment to You—FREE!

I, Lucile Kimball, a married woman past middle-age, attacked by obesity for years, finally conquered the fat monster. Everything you ever tried, I tried. I went through exercises, rolled on the floor, cut down my food, gave up sweets, fats and starches, wore elastic clothing, tried electricity, massage, osteopathy, vibration, hot and vapor baths, swallowed pellets, capsules and teas—gained as rapidly as I lost—and so would you with those so-called treatments.

For years, my friends have asked me to tell them how I got rid of fat and kept rid of it. They know that I lost what I want—go through no exercise other than I lost weight, the house and office, that I am FREE from obesity, happy, healthy, active and look younger by fifteen years than I actually am. I was afraid that my Home Treatment might prove temporary. I waited months. My fat did not return, and I waited years, but my fat did not come back. Still, I postponed. I tried my Home Obesity Treatment on friends. They were equally benefited—men and women of all ages. And finally I decided to reduce the obesity of fat men and women all over the world.

You have figured fat by the pound. Your "methods" and "treatments" have attacked living tissues more than fat. What did you eat? Nothing! Your fat came back the moment you stopped your exercise or diet. It did not go if you tried anything else. But my Home Treatment is not exercise or diet. I say "diet" in its broadest sense—not "starvation diet," not "exclusive diet," but diet of all kinds.

Eat any kind of meat, vegetables, salads, pastry, fish, fruit, nuts, candy that you want when you want it. Drink what you want when you want it. I don't interfere with your food or drink. No bending over, rolling, playing golf, horseback riding, doing exercise of any kind. Sit in your chair at home, or in your chair at your office—and the fat will vanish from you by the pint, quart and gallon. It goes away rapidly. It melts from your cells. You feel stronger—stronger. Heavily returns to women, amongst them. You never heard of anything of the kind before in your life. Everybody says, "How wonderful! It's marvelous beyond description, and it is absolutely harmless. It is so simple, you need devote only three or four minutes each twenty-four hours to its use."

Spent Just One Penny!

All I want you to do is to get my books. This explains the harm of most methods and treatments; why exercise and diet fail; how I conquered fat; how I rid myself of fat; how you can be free from the grip of the fat fiend; how you, showing how you can reduce fat out from your own home, boarding house, while traveling or visiting. Don't wait. This book costs you nothing. It tells the how and why, and your name should be among the first to reach me. I pledge secrecy and a prompt response. This is the key to successful, rapid fat reduction. Write today—Now! Hurry your request—this moment! If you have been disappointed before, this time you will be satisfied. Write in a letter or on a postcard. Please send Free Book showing how I can reduce my obesity at home. Sign your name and address. You are not obligated in any way. Get your request in now.

So Much Appendicitis

A prominent physician asks the question, "Why so many cases of appendicitis?" and answers it by saying that thousands of cases could be prevented if the public understood the predisposing causes. In its incipency the warning symptoms are manifested by constipation, indigestion, bloating with wind and gas and rumbling with pain in the bowels. This, then, is the time to adopt treatment which will overcome the indigestion, etc. For a simple, but thorough, home treatment, there is nothing superior to triopiptine tablets to rid the system of the incipient trouble and thus ward off the real disease and an expensive operation. Physicians prescribe triopiptine and most pharmacies supply them in sealed packages.—ADY.

INTRODUCING LATEST MODELS IN THE

NEMO HYGIENIC CORSET SPECIALTIES

APPROVED BY THE

NEMO HYGIENIC-FASHION INSTITUTE, N. Y.

Nemo Week Will Help You to Win The Battle Between Style and Health

Practically every important store in the United States, in Canada, and in other countries, joins this year in the celebration of Nemo Week. This annual fashion event brings together all the Nemo inventions and improvements of the past year. It emphasizes more clearly than ever the important fact that—

Nemo Corsets are in a Class Alone, and Must be Considered Separately and Apart from All Other Makes Millions of women now refuse to wear any corset but the Nemo. Millions more will do so when they learn that all Nemo Corsets have—

Exclusive Style and Health Features of Inestimable Value to Every Woman, Which Cannot be Obtained in Any Other Corsets, at Any Price, nor Under Any Other Trademark, in Any Store in the World

These are some of the Nemo inventions that have made "Nemo" a household word in every country where corsets are worn:

1. The ingenious Nemo construction that "bridges the diaphragm," gives plenty of breathing space and freedom from constriction over the stomach section, no matter how tightly the corset may be laced. No woman wearing a Nemo ever feels that crushing, smothering pain that makes her rush home to get her corset off.
2. Gores and bands of semi-elastic Nemo Lastikops Webbing and Lastikops Cloth, that shape the corset closely to your form, and give you, with perfect comfort, the slender-tipt effect of the so-called "corsetless figure."
3. The new Nemo "Lasticurve-Back," which makes even the longest corset comfortable in any position, produces fashionable slender lines, prevents that ugly "corset-line," and holds the corset down where it belongs.
4. The famous "Lastikops Bandlet," made of Lastikops Webbing, which insures perfect and comfortable hygienic abdominal support, and has done more than medicine to preserve and restore the health of millions of women.
5. The Nemo Auto-Massage device and the Nemo "Limshaping Extensions," which permanently reduce the surplus flesh of abdomen and upper limbs.

Every Woman Can Enjoy Up-to-Date Style, Improve Her Figure and Guard Her Health Through These Patented Nemo Inventions and Special Features—Used Only in Nemo Corsets

Here's just a hint of the splendid Nemo models you'll find at your favorite store Nemo Week:

With INCURVE-BACK and ELASTIC SKIRT GORES
No. 508—Self-Reducing, low bust $5.00
No. 508—Self-Reducing, medium $5.00

With LASTICURVE-BACK
No. 322—Self-Reducing, low bust $3.00
No. 324—Self-Reducing, medium $3.00

No. 326—"Nemo Week Special," a new Self-Reducing model, for this event only; extremely long skirt, low bust; of our durable "Steel-tex" batiste—a wonderful value $3.00

No. 510—Self-Reducing, low bust; of very fine white coutil. $5.00

With LASTIKOPS BANDLET
No. 523—Self-Reducing, low bust $5.00
No. 522—Self-Reducing, medium $5.00

This is only a suggestion—there's a Nemo model for every figure, and those for the slender have hygienic and style features just as indispensable as those in the famous Self-Reducing Corsets.

Study Nemo Corsets This Week and Learn True Corset Economy

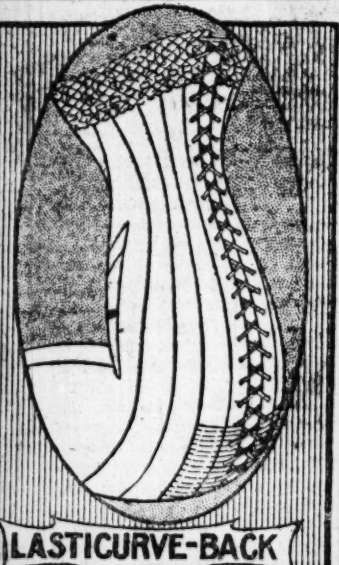

WE GUARANTEE THAT every Nemo represents at least twice as much value in material and making as any other corsets sold at same price.

WE GUARANTEE THAT if you are once correctly fitted in a Nemo you will never willingly wear any other corset, and that you will have more comfort, better health and better style than ever before.

Stovall Lost His Control, but Ban Johnson Can Still Burn 'Em Over the Pan

MR. SHORT SPORT: He's a material factor in reducing the high cost of Lunk Hedd's living By Jean Knott

JOHNSON MAY NOT LET STOVALL GO BACK AS LEADER

Temporary Disrating of Browns' Manager for Assault on Umpire May Be Made Permanent.

GEORGE STOVALL, suspended manager of the Browns, may suffer the extreme and unusual penalty of being removed permanently from leadership of the local American League Club, according to a statement made by President Byron Bancroft Johnson of the American League, to a Post-Dispatch correspondent in Chicago, Tuesday.

President Johnson was asked concerning the final punishment he intended meting out to Stovall, following the temporary banishment now imposed on the St. Louis leader because of his assault on Umpire Ferguson. "All that I can say at this time," said Johnson, is that the Browns will have to be governed by some other man until I can get at the bottom of the incident.

"Stovall stands indefinitely suspended without pay, and is no longer manager."

"When the suspension will be lifted, or whether or not he will ever be allowed to resume his place at the head of the club, is a question that I cannot answer now."

Stovall is the first manager ever to be suspended by a league president. "The incident will be lifted to the bottom," continued Johnson. "I am determined that there will be no rough house tactics in the American League, even if I have to resort to the most drastic measures to preserve order."

"As soon as Ferguson wired me his side of the affair, I decided that Stovall deserved immediate and indefinite suspension, but after reading the umpire's letter I am more than ever of the opinion that Stovall was more at fault and immediately notified him that he had been relieved of his duties as manager."

"Will Stovall be allowed to resume the management of the club after the incident is fully probed?" Johnson was asked.

"I don't know about that," was the reply, and Johnson's tone led to the belief that it would require some talk explaining on the part of the first baseman before the American League chief would be appeased.

Johnson was asked if he had authority to depose a manager without consent of the club.

FEDERAL LEAGUE TO OPEN SEASON AGAINST CHICAGO

Jack O'Connor to Lead Local Third League Club in Contest Here Today.

Weather permitting, the Federal League baseball season will be inaugurated at St. Louis U. campus, King's highway and Manchester avenue, Tuesday afternoon, when the local invaders, under Jack O'Connor, oppose the Chicago entry, commanded by Bert Kelley, the former Washington pitcher. Play will begin at 3:15, with Frey and Walden as the local battery, antagonized by Paynter and McDonough of the Windy City.

An organization meeting of the new local club was held at the Missouri A. C. Monday evening when Ed Steininger, former chief executive of the Cardinals, was named president and Arthur Baker, once an allround athlete at Central High School, was elected vice-president and treasurer. The secretary has not been named.

The admission Tuesday will be 25 and 50 cents. The batting order:

COBB HAS POOR CHANCE TO LAND BATTING HONORS

Rivals Speaker, Jackson and Lajoie Have Good Start on the "Peach."

By Clarence F. Lloyd.

T. Raymond Cobb must hurry if he expects to head off Joe Jackson in their race for batting honors this season. Although Shoeless Joe has participated in three times as many games as the Peach to date, he owns a much healthier swat mark. And he also has a big edge over Cobb in extra-base hitting.

Although Cobb had probably as much preliminary training as any big leaguer this spring, he has failed to perform his wonderful feats since rejoining the Juggernauts. He has hit almost as well as in former years, but his performance is not of the real Ty Cobb brand.

Tyrus has been in six games, to bat 24 times, and has poked nine blows for a .375 mark. Against this, Jackson has been in 18 games, been up 64 times and slammed out 25 hits.

Cobb is not slugging. The strange feature of Cobb's work has been his failure to slap out an extra base hit in 24 times at bat. And he has crossed the rubber but once in the six. He has also pilfered but one base.

Thirteen of Jackson's 25 hits have been for extra bases. That means that Joe has a lead of that many extra base pokes over Tyrus. His long blows have been divided as follows: Two-base hits, 6; three-base hits, 7.

Jackson Not Stealing.

Although one of the fastest men in the league, Jackson has stolen but three bases in 18 games. That this player doesn't steal more such a run was put over on fielding miscues. He made the Red Sox play dead Monday.

Our friend Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Phils also was swinging in on a record of the sixth inning of Monday's game with the Giants. Alexander had pitched 26 consecutive scoreless innings against McGraw's champions until the Giants got to him in the sixth frame Monday. His record included that 11-inning 0-0 tie in which McCormick's famous single was disallowed by Klem because the ump was making an announcement when the hit was made and a subsequent nine-inning shutout. Although scored on Monday, he beat the Giants, Marquard up, 6-3. It was four straight defeats for the Giants.

Another old snafu is having a big year in the American League. Like Matty of the New York Giants, Eddie Plank of the Athletics, although in harness 14 years, still is Connie Mack's most dependable pitching person. He beat the Yankees, 6-1, Monday.

Griff has shaken up his batting order off day and went into third place by beating Boston in 10 innings, 3-2. Dahlen's Daisies look more troublesome every day.

Philadelphia's protest of the games lost to the Giants on April 23-24 have been disallowed. President Locke claimed the diamond was not in shape, there being a hole back of the pitcher's box which worried his pitchers.

Grover Lauderhill, the Cardinal castoff, shut out St. Paul, 4-0, and the Louisville club still is in the thick of the pennant hunt. Powell and Woodburn, former St. Louisans, are helping out with perfectly good pitching.

WRAY'S COLUMN

The Punishment Fits the Crime.

POOH BAH BAN JOHNSON'S big stick is about to fall heavily on the only vulnerable spot in the armor of Manager George Stovall of the Browns, now in eclipse for his little experiment in umpire irrigation Saturday.

In the routine list of flagellations administered erring baseball men there are three open to the president of the American League. He may suspend Stovall for a definite period, in which case the hardship is worked on the club, not the man. He may fine him, in which case the club could make up the financial setback to Stovall. He may do both, with the same results. None of these courses, if pursued, will reach the Browns' leader with the punishment intended.

And it's a punishment that fits the crime.

Here's a Good Hunch.

JIMMY McALEER and Clark Griffith recently got together in a fanning bee and agreed unanimously that the Philadelphia American League club was altogether too weak a team to be at the top of the League. This is the best tip on the Mackmen yet published.

Gold, Not Gilt.

THE American Association's club standing today has about the same effect on the countenance of former Owner Grayson of St. Louis as a green persimmon. William wrestled with his team for several years and finally threw it down-hill. In fact, he wrestled it to the bottom. Willie unloaded what he thought was a gold brick for $100,000 on Mr. Wathen, now president of the club. Instead of hobnobbing around last place Louisville Tuesday morning was second.

If there is any smile coming it is not to William.

He May Be Railroaded.

IN fact, it is like the czar of the American League to go after Stovall still more thoroughly and set in motion the secret and dreaded "Walver B," which means railroaded the undesirable one out of the League. While baseball heads will not admit it, whenever the "Walver B" is sent out, the player against whose name this symbol is placed is doomed.

Some Notables Who Passed On.

ONLY rarely has the death-knell of a big League career gone forth. The two most notable instances of railroaded are believed to be the cases of George Stallings, manager of the New York Highlanders, and James Delahanty, infielder for the Detroit Tigers.

Stallings, after a successful season with the New York club, during which he ran his team into second place from nowhere, was cut off in mid-season following a signal-stealing scandal, and summarily dismissed from the League. At the time when other American League clubs could have used a capable leader, since that time more than one American League team has sought a manager, but Stallings' name was never mentioned in Ban Johnson's circle. That he is back in the National League is due to limitations of the Johnson administration.

He Helped Cobb's Strike.

DELAHANTY was railroaded out of the League following the Ty Cobb strike. It may or may

HUG WOULD SEND BURK TO INDIANS TO GET CONTROL

Cardinal Pitcher May Be Placed With Kelley's Team for Rest of Season.

CARDINALS MANAGER TO TURN BACK JIM WHELAN

PHILADELPHIA, May 6. (AP)—Manager Jim Whelan of the Cardinals today announced the release of shortstop Jimmy Whelan, obtained from John McGraw's club, to the Philadelphia Athletics. Whelan is sent to Mike Kelley's club under an optional recall agreement. He'll probably be back with the Cards next fall. He reports to his new quarters immediately.

By W. J. O'Connor.

That Sanford Burk, the Cardinal pitcher, who has been unable to master control, will follow Jimmy Whelan to Indianapolis, is the tip handed out by the scribes of the Hoosier City. Manager Huggins has promised Mike Kelley of Indianapolis a pitcher and an infielder for Charley O'Leary, and it is probable that Burk, with Whelan, will be the price paid for the ex-Detroit. Burk's failure to round to this spring has been one of the mysteries of the Cardinal club. In the spring training season Sanford showed more promise than any other member of the squad. However, he has not hit his stride and because the Cards now are going so good, Hug refuses to experiment. He probably will send Burk to Indianapolis, where Sanford can work regularly and get in shape. Later Burk may return to the Cards.

Phillie Pitchers Strong.
Hug's men tackle the National League leaders Tuesday and a four-game series with the Phils should prove the acid test for the speed-mad Cards. For two years, the Phils have been easy picking for St. Louis, but this year Doolin boasts of the best pitching staff in either League. He has more good pitchers working in their regular turn than any other manager and that's the reason the Phils are on top. Chalmers, Alexander, Seaton, Brennan, Mayer and Moore are going at tip top speed.

The Cardinal pitchers, with the exception of Steele and Sallee, have been doing none too well, but Harmon gives promise of rounding to, while Willis may get in shape and beat Boston and the Giants, two teams he has found comparatively easy. On the other hand, the Cards, off to a bad start now, are hitting with regularity, and it takes all-right pitching to keep them off the top hats. They have scored a lot of runs in the last few games.

The secret of the Cardinals' recent spurt is that Huggins has as many good men

THE PASSING OF "RUBE."

It is true! 'tis pity! Rube Waddell announces he is through. For him no minstrel raptures swell and pity 'tis, 'tis true.

That great ten thousand dollar whip—that massive head of bone into oblivion will slip. For Rube Waddell has blown.

Our Benny McGovern may have been walloped by Mars, but we're willing to lay a few beans that he could fight rings around Saturn.

And again—Plank spans the Yanks.

Johnny Kling was spoken at Chicago. He was scuffling along before a spanking breeze under a full spread of canvas, with a slight list to leeward. He will touch at Cincinnati for coal and provisions and then proceed to the East, where he will report to Rear Admiral Tinker.

Dentist Leach Cross will fill an engagement with Harry Treadall, Thursday night.

"Rube" Waddell started in life without a dollar to his name. He finishes the same way, showing that the "Rube" has held his own.

on the bench as he has in the game. He has attained that happy position such as McGraw has held for several seasons, where he can afford to lose a regular at any old time and not weaken his club by putting a bench-warmer on the job. After all, ball club is no stronger than its weakest pitcher, if he works, or no stronger than its substitutes at all times. The Cards have the best utility man in the league, it seems, and for that particular reason the proteges of Huggins are hustling. Teddy Cather has delivered so often as a pinch-hitter that he can hardly be denied a chance to perform regularly in the outfield. Then Jimmy Sheppard and Steve Evans are hanging around, itching to get a permanent assignment.

Not Easy to Displace Whitted.
George Whitted, now showing in lieu of Mowrey, is a hard-to-break back into the game. Whitted has played in only one game, and he won that with a triple in the thirteenth inning. He's as fast as a hare, and the club needs speed.

Five "Big Nine" Track Teams in M. V. Meet Here

Valley Conference Will Attract 25 Schools—Californians Not Coming.

Twenty-five schools are sure to be represented in the Missouri Valley Conference games here, May 31, according to Arno Krause, secretary of the committee in charge of the big athletic event. The entry of the University of Chicago track team means that five "Big Nine" schools will participate in the meet. Illinois, Purdue, Northwestern and Ohio State already having entered. Illinois will probably send its crack relay team, winners in the Penn Carnival last Saturday, and Capt. Case. Washington University has been promised all Illinois athletes who are not hindered from coming by examinations. The University of Southern California and Leland Stanford University teams will not come. It was hoped that these far-Western teams would be represented, but because of the long jump they have declined. California University had previously entered the Eastern Intercollegiate meet, which will be held the same day.

Because at least 400 entries are expected, it is likely that the committee in charge of the meet will ask Missouri Valley Conference officials to permit the staging of the semi-final as well as the final heats on the last day of the meet. The entry list is so bulky that preliminary heats will have to be decided Friday, May 30. A conference rule says that all but the final heat must be decided on the day previous to the final. It is likely, however, that the semi-finals, as well as the final, will be held on the last day to more evenly divide the competition.

T. C. Briggs, No. 5 in the Princeton eight, will not be able to row against Harvard and Pennsylvania Saturday because of blood poisoning in his hand.

Tommy Dixon won the decision over John Greeley of Pittsburgh in a 10-round bout in Winnetka, Monday. The bout was tame and both men had to be instructed to mix more by the referee, on penalty of having the bout stopped.

Second baseman Cadogan of the Illinois University baseball team has been operated on for appendicitis. His loss is a sad blow to the Illini team.

Some Speed in France.
On Dec. 21 last there were in France 2,080,985 cycles, 32,150 motor cars, and 28,441 motor cycles. These figures give one bicycle for each 13 inhabitants, one automobile for each 300 inhabitants, and one motor cycle for each 1382 inhabitants.

Continuation Events Up Series.
The Cardinals have been covered up by series with the Nats, but they are winning Monday's game. The Nats-Pirates game in Cleveland, which was the first of a series, was a close contest.

"Red" Ramsdell, the former great sprinter of the University of Pennsylvania, has bought a part ownership in the Marshall Training School in San Antonio, Tex., and in connection with his other duties will coach the football, basket ball and track teams.

SPEAKER'S START AUGURS RECORD SEASON AT BAT

Speed Boys' Slugger Also Has Wonderful Record in Other Departments.

This Speaker certainly is off to a good start, even if the rest of the speed boys are not. During the first two weeks of the championship race the star outfielder of the Red Sox hit at a 47 clip and fielded faultlessly, playing in the same smooth manner that marked his work in 1912, when the Chalmers jury of baseball sharps voted him the most valuable American League player—a vote that carried with it a gift of a touring car.

That batting average of .437 and fielding percentage of .900 hardly does Speaker justice. Mr. Smoke obtained the batting credit by getting 14 hits in 32 times at bat, but besides obtaining 14 safeties he worked the pitchers for 12 passes and reached first base on errors four times.

If "at bats" were calculated now as they were in the very early days of the national pastime Speaker would have been charged with 45 trips to the plate, and if the old-time record for reaching first base still were in vogue the Texan's percentage would be .467. He got on the paths 16 times on hits from April 10 to April 23, inclusive; 12 times on passes and four times on errors.

Until Walter Johnson fitted jackets of white on the Red Sox, Speaker had scored in every game in which he had played and in only two contests had he failed to make a hit. Walter Johnson and Byron Houck were the men who stuck ciphers into Speaker's base hit column, and they also were the only pitchers who fanned him during the first fortnight's play.

In a 500 Stealer.
Speaker's base running average at the end of the second week of the campaign was .500. He had executed four successful steals and been thwarted the same number of times when he started out on chivalrous expeditions. The backstops who stopped the Bostonian were Ira Thomas and Jack Lann, the former having cut Speaker down three times when he tried to steal.

He had three assists from the outfield in the first 10 games, figuring in two double plays. These figures show just how valuable Speaker was to his team in the first two weeks of the season.

Actually at bat—45 times.
Reached first base—30 times.
Sacrifice—Five—Once.
Runs batted in—Five.
Passes received—Twelve.
Times fanned—Twice.
Runs scored—Nine.
Hits made—Fourteen.
Bases stolen—Four.
Thrown out trying to steal—Four.
Errors—Two—One.
Assists—Three.
Errors—None.
Double plays started—Two.
Men thrown out—Three.

EIGHT DERBY STARTERS, HAWTHORN IS DOUBTFUL

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 6.—It was regarded as practically certain here today that the renewal of the Kentucky Derby classic May 10, would see at least eight starters at the barrier, the largest Derby field since 1900, when 10 3-year-olds went to the post. The horses regarded as certain starters and their owners are: Ten Point, A. L. Aste; Foundation, C. W. McKenna; Leobach, J. W. Schorr; Yankee Notions, H. K. Knapp; Lord Marshall, J. O. and G. H. Keene; Donnell, T. P. Hayes; Prince Hermis, Lew Mason; and Jimmy Hill, owned by Doerffinger & West.

It was still uncertain today whether C. F. Tusehemeyer's Hawthorn, mentioned as a prominent contender, would start. The horse has been sick.

POST-DISPATCH in both Circulation and Advertising

Circulation averages for three months:

Sunday exclusively 320,763
Daily (exclusive of Sunday). . . 180,173
Daily and Sunday 200,138

These are the highest general averages—for the same relative period—ever attained by the POST-DISPATCH in the 35 years of its history.

IN ADVERTISING
the POST-DISPATCH has broken all records of its own, and completely wipes out those of all other St. Louis papers for the same period.

Actual space measurement (less cheap contract legal) of the St. Louis newspapers for the three months was as follows:

POST-DISPATCH 2,683,960 lines
Globe-Democrat 1,675,200 lines
Republic 1,237,800 lines
Times (no Sunday) 1,168,200 lines
Star 707,400 lines

The POST-DISPATCH carried—
60% more than the Globe-Democrat
130% more than the Times
117% more than the Republic
280% more than the Star

An advertiser should buy newspaper space as he would buy merchandise. He must consider first the quantity and second the quality of circulation, if he hopes to get the maximum of results for a given expenditure.

IT IS RESULTS THAT COUNT
The POST-DISPATCH is a clean home paper. It does not print objectionable advertising of any character.

Over 80 per cent of the circulation of the daily is in the City of St. Louis and its immediate suburbs.

It sells over 145,000 papers in the City of St. Louis and its suburbs every day.

ours, because we don't know how to make "cheap" clothes, and we are not competing with such makers.

Everything we make is standardized and has intrinsic value in proportion to the price. We particularly emphasize our $25 suits because so many men are willing to spend about that price, and want to get as great a value as possible for the money.

There's true economy in such clothes as ours; the price are based on what we put into them; fine fabrics, fine tailoring, the best style designing; our facilities for these things are greater and better than any custom tailor can command and the maker of cheap clothes can't afford them.

You'll find our suits ready at $18 and $20; and up to $40 and $50. At $25 is a good place to begin.

The Jarr Family

Rangle Jangles in the tune of Spring, till Jarr Joins.

By Roy L. McCardell

"The only sights I see are a lot of loafers hanging around the corners. And if the sounds of spring are 'I cash clo!' and 'strobberlees!' maybe you're right."

"And Gus has bock beer on tap," suggested Mr. Rangle. "And there's an organ-grinder—not a street piano, but an old-fashioned hand organ playing old tunes—Kiljoy!"

Mr. Jarr was the killjoy.

They turned into Gus', to find the genial proprietor of the place swearing at a pale little man in shirt-sleeves.

The pale little man was standing on the counter at the back of the bar stretching netting over the mirror with a gaudy artificial flower here and there to give it a touch of color.

"Ah, Gus!" cried Mr. Rangle jovially, "Come fill the cup and in the fire of spring Your winter garment of repentance fling—"

"I ain't throwing no garments in the fire," said Gus surlily. "If you burn garments in the furnace you choke yourself with the smell of burning clothes. But this feller has broke three shells and a mixing glass as cost me—"

"Never mind," interrupted Mr. Rangle. "Cheer up! Cherries will soon be ripe."

"I ain't selling cherries," said Gus. "What'll you fellers have?"

They stated what they'd have, and Gus went back to superintending the draping of the mirror.

"I don't see what you have a mirror for if you cover it with netting," said Mr. Jarr.

"Mind your business," said Gus shortly. "I gotta clean up for spring, ain't I?"

"That's what I was telling Jarr," said Mr. Rangle. "Everybody should be happy in the spring."

"Everybody should be happy in the winter, too," said Gus, but nobody ain't. Fellers as is happy is only fooling themselves."

"That's what I've been telling him," said Mr. Jarr. "I think it's only a false alarm. We may have cold weather tomorrow. I'll believe it's spring when I see real indications."

"Look out there!" cried Mrs. Jarr as he entered the door, "the floor's just been scrubbed. And don't put your hands on the woodwork. It's just been painted."

"Spring cleaning, eh?" asked Mr. Jarr. "I was telling Rangle and Gu— another friend (and the old grouchies wouldn't believe me) that the winter was really over. Give us a kiss, kid! 'Cherries will soon be ripe!'"
